It Gives a Man a New Outlook

...when he first views the world through the windshield of his own Cadillac car. In fact, we have it on the word of Cadillac owners themselves that it constitutes one of the most edifying experiences of a motorist's life. There is, for instance, the wholly new sense of pride and satisfaction he feels as he sits in possession of a motor car that is so widely respected. There is the entirely new feeling of mastery he enjoys as he puts the car through its brilliant paces for the very first time. And, finally, there is his deep pleasure in realizing that he has made one of motordom's soundest investments. And, of course, all of these sentiments will be all the more pronounced for the motorist who makes the move to Cadillac in 1957. Why not plan to stop in soon for a preview journey and see for yourself? You're welcome to try the view from the driver's seat at any time.

CORAL HARBOUR

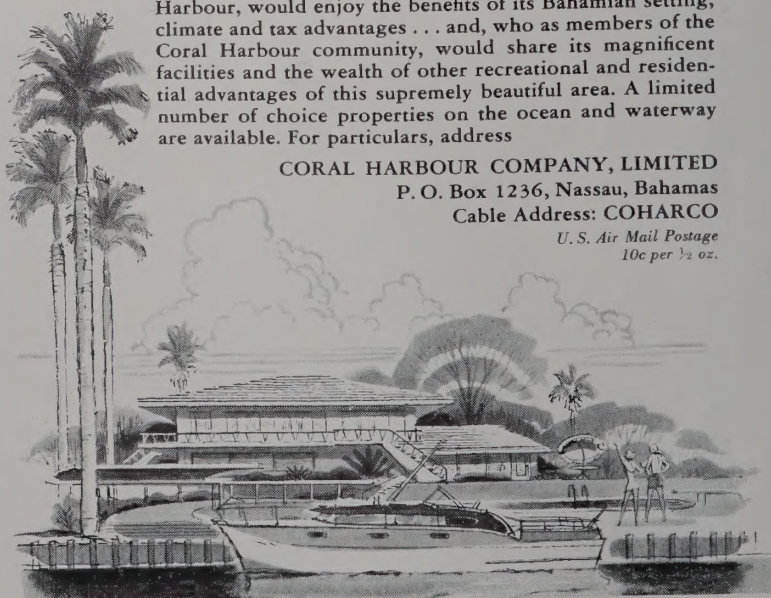

In the Bahamas of Eternal Spring—only a short drive from Nassau—is the new, exclusive and self-contained residential community of Coral Harbour.

It is dedicated to the relatively few people of discernment and compatible tastes who, by building homes at Coral Harbour, would enjoy the benefits of its Bahamian setting, climate and tax advantages . . . and, who as members of the Coral Harbour community, would share its magnificent facilities and the wealth of other recreational and residential advantages of this supremely beautiful area. A limited number of choice properties on the ocean and waterway are available. For particulars, address

Miramar Inn

MARCH IS THE LIVELIEST MONTH of the social season in the Palm Beaches and the Miramar Inn is no exception, being filled to overflowing as usual with guests staying at the Lodge on the grounds and in nearby cottages.

Weekly shuffleboard contests and putting tourneys on the spacious palm-shaded grounds facing the lakeshore attract large galleries and the weekly card parties are well-attended. The Inn features an exclusive club-like atmosphere with many of the guests making it their Winter home. Many parties take place among groups of guests, and many attend the club affairs sponsored by the Palm Beach Round Table, the Four Arts exhibits, the Everglades fashion shows and luncheons, the Palm Beach Playhouse series, and social events at Brazilian Court and the Biltmore.

Recent top scorers in the series of putting tourneys are: W. E. Reynolds of Scarsdale, N. Y.; Howard E. Shore of Bryn Mawr, Pa.; Mrs. Joseph Roll of Glens Cove, L. I.; Mrs. James R. Simpson of Wayne, Pa.; Miss Helen Buckmaster of Columbus, Ohio; Mrs. Harrison Cook of Baldwin, L. I.; Mrs. E. M. Laurie of Toronto; Miss Genevieve Gassaway of Toledo, Ohio; James W. Todd of Long Island and Stanley S. Rogers of Bluefield, W. Va.

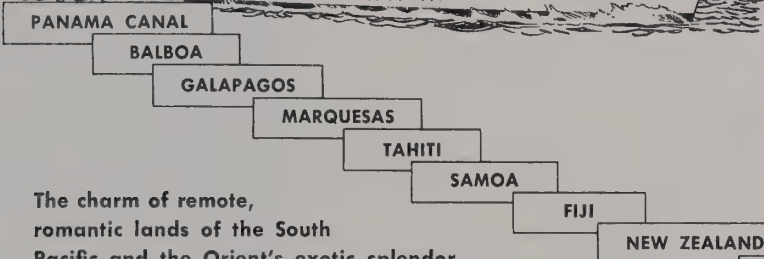

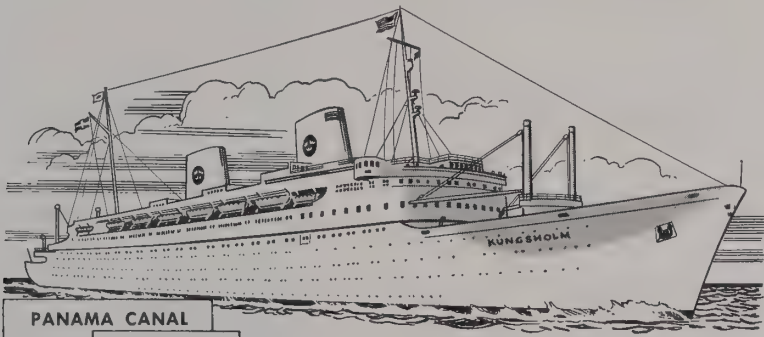

Top prize winners at the bridge parties recently were: W. C. Erdman of Riverton, N. J.; Mrs. A. L. Shepherd of Bristol, Md.; Mrs. C. W. Loucher of Clarksburg, W. Va.; Miss Sara Cooper of Hopkinsville, Ky.; and George Hough of Chicago; Mrs. Howard G. Craig of Potsdam, N. Y.; Mrs. W. D. McGregor of Montclair, N. J.; George C. Trumbull of Upper Jay, N. Y.; Mrs. John Noble of Glen Cove, L. I.

Miramar guests return season after season for decades. H. H. McLeay of Ogdensburg, N. Y., is here for his fifteenth season. Mr. and Mrs. Clements Batchelor of Glens Falls, N. Y., are passing their eighth season here. Mr. and Mrs. Thomas A. Griffin of Detroit have returned for their tenth season.

The Inn attracts quite a group of Virginians. Mr. and Mrs. Sydnor E. Newman of Farmville, Va., have joined his mother, Mrs. Anne Newman at Miramar Inn. He was accompanied by his uncle, E. W. Newman of Ashland, Va. The Newmans spent last season abroad. Mrs. Anne Newman toured Europe and the Sydnor Newmans and E. W. Newman took a cruise of the Mediterranean and South America.

Russell Land of Virginia Beach, Va., is here for his eighth season. Also from Virginia Beach are Claiborn Bryant and F. A. Van Patten.

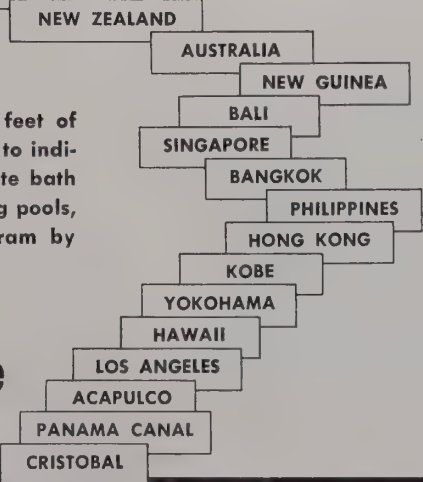

Other recent arrivals for mid-season visits are: Mr. and Mrs. William A. Duvall of Chevy Chase, Md.; Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Loucher of Clarksburg, W. Va.; Mrs. Kate Wingate and Miss Lillian Seville of Athens, Ga.; Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Roll of Glen Cove, L. I.; Mr. and Mrs. Emory H. Wright and Mr. and Mrs. Donald D. McKay of Newton Highlands, Mass.; Mr. and Mrs. Harold Messenger of Hartford, Conn.; Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Ferris of Riverside, Conn.; Mrs. George Hammesfahr of Bronxville, N. Y.; Mrs. Harold W. Selby of Ocean Grove, N. J.; Mrs. J. K. Poindexter and Mrs. R. H. Chatham of Elkin, N. C.; Mrs. Donald E. Irwin of Auburndale, Mass.; Mr. and Mrs. George M. Hough of Chicago; Mrs. Julian Smith of Oneonta, N. Y.; Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Johnson of Norfolk, Va.; Mrs. B. Maxley Low and Miss J. M. Clowes of Richmond, Va.; Mr. and Mrs. Edward S. Ferebee of Norfolk, Va.; Mr. and Mrs. Emory M. Wright and Mr. and Mrs. Donald D. McKay of Newton Highlands, Mass.

The charm of remote, romantic lands of the South Pacific and the Orient's exotic splendor are combined in this fabulous "Cruise of a Lifetime." Your vessel is the magnificent world cruise ship KUNGS HOLM, 21,140 gross register tons, 600 feet of sheer luxury. Complete air-conditioning extends even to individual controls in cabins—all outside, all with private bath or shower. Broad decks, smart lounges, two swimming pools, splendid cuisine and service. THE PALM BEACH POLO AND HUNT CLUB is enjoying the greatest season of polo since its inauguration three years ago. The club has become one of the Winter centers of amateur polo.

Each year more and more amateur players have gathered at this new club, until this year it boasts the greatest number in its brief history. Gentlemen players from Pittsfield, Farmington, Blind Brook, Meadowbrook, Washington, Dallas, Bethpage, Columbia, Yale and Squadron A, in addition to other well known clubs, have shipped their ponies here, and appear regularly in the line-up at the Palm Beach Polo and Hunt Club. WE search out the Finest of Blue Ribbon beef. We judge the Quality of the breed, the manner of feeding and fattening...as well as indications of Perfection in the firmness of the meat, its texture, its color and the presence of flecks of white fat in the red lean.

The Aging...correctly done, as we do it, produces the ultimate in Flavor and Tenderness.

The Roasting...Because preferences differ widely, to produce a roast of beef meeting all requests is truly an Art. Here the roasts come from our Great Ovens with all the fragrant, Natural Essences sealed in.

The Carving...must be Deft — and "short the time between platter and plate"... thus our roasts are Carved to your Individual Order, in your own view, and served Piping Hot, steaming with tantalizing Aroma and coursing with Rich, red, Meaty juices.

The Portions...must be Hearty and Happily Generous...in keeping with the Innkeeper's desire to Please his Guest.

The Setting...of our Rib Room — in the elegant reaches of the Henry Flagler Mansion at the Whitehall — is one of surpassing magnificence and opulent charm. It is an important reason why, nowhere in the world, will you better enjoy Beef at its very, very Best than at the final University of Miami Symphony Orchestra concerts this season on May 5 and 6 (James Christian Pfohl will be guest conductor for the Gorin concerts); Heitor Villa-Lobos, one of four guest conductors who will appear with the University of Miami Symphony Orchestra during the 1957-58 season.

Volpe. Since the death of Arnold Volpe who founded the Symphony, Mrs. Volpe has carried on her husband's work as manager of the UM Symphony Orchestra.

In addition to the annual concert season and the summer "pops," Mrs. Volpe arranges special events which are presented under the auspices of the University of Miami.

One of this season's most exciting special events will be the three performances of the Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo with Alicia Alonso as guest prima ballerina.

The Ballet Russe is America's oldest and most popular ballet company touring more than 100 cities annually with the world's leading ballet stars, brilliant corps de ballet, symphony orchestra and largest repertoire of classical and contemporary ballets.

Included in the Ballet Russe company are Igor Youskevitch and Nina Novak, as well as Yvonne Chouteau, Irinia Borowska, Alan Howard, Miguel Terekhov, Eugene Slavin, Deni Lamont and Kenneth Gillespie.

Friday evening, March 15, the Ballet Russe will present "Giselle," "Pas de Deux" and "Sombreros." The Saturday matinee (March 16) will include "Les Sylphides," "Cirque de Deux" and "Coppelia." For the final performance Saturday evening, the Ballet Russe will dance "Swan Lake," "Harlequinade" and "Le Beau Danube."

Violinist Isaac Stern will appear with the Famed conductor Arthur Fiedler, who will open the 1957-58 season of University of Miami Symphony Orchestra concerts on October 27-28; he is also scheduled to guest conduct during the Summer "pops" season; Marie (Mrs. Arnold) Volpe, manager of the University of Miami Symphony Orchestra, the late Mr. Volpe's photograph is in the background. (He founded the Symphony at UM over 30 years ago); Violinist Isaac Stern, who will perform with the University of Miami Symphony Orchestra on March 24 and 25.

UM Symphony in a pair of concerts on March 24 and 25. (UM concerts are presented in pairs with the first at Miami Beach Auditorium and the second at Dade County Auditorium.)

Stern is the only exclusively American-trained violinist among the world's top-flight instrumentalists. He has performed in almost every country and was the first American artist to play to Russian audiences since World War II.

John Bitter, dean of UM's School of Music and music director and conductor of the Symphony, will conduct for the Stern concert and for all other concerts unless otherwise specified.

In April Jorge Bolet, the noted pianist, will be guest soloist with the UM Symphony. His concerts are scheduled on April 14 and 15.

Since Bolet's debut with the New York Philharmonic in 1933 which the press hailed as "the most outstanding concerto reading of the season," Bolet has concertized extensively in Europe and America. He is well known to Florida audiences, having been soloist with the UM Symphony on two previous occasions.

Final concert of the thirtieth season will feature James Christian Pfohl, founder and director of the Brevard Music Festival, as guest conductor. Two concerts are scheduled on May 5 and 6. Soloist for these concerts will be baritone Igor Gorin.

Pfohl founded the Transylvania Music Camp in 1936 and has brought summer music education nearer home for hundreds of young people in the South. In 1946, the Festival concert series, which follows the camp season each year and is known as the Brevard Music Festival, was instituted.

Baritone Gorin is well known to radio and television audiences, having appeared frequently on "The Telephone Hour," "The Voice of Firestone" and "The Cavalcade of Stars."

music planned. Nationally-known guest conductors and artists will appear with the UM Summer symphony, a group of 64 professional musicians. Among the guest conductors who will be featured this Summer are Arthur Fiedler, D'Artega and Leroy Anderson.

The thirty-first season promises to be one of the most outstanding in the history of the UM Symphony Orchestra. The opening concert on Oct. 27-28 will feature Arthur Fiedler as guest conductor with Guiomar Novaes, pianist, as soloist.

The full 1957-58 concert season will include:

Nov. 17-18—Heitor Villa-Lobos, guest conductor.

Dec. 8-9—"Amahl and the Night Visitors," opera by Gian-Carlo Menotti. The Menotti work will be performed by the same cast who did the Christmas, 1956, television performance.

Jan. 19-20—Igor Stravinsky, guest conductor.

Feb. 9-10—Yehudi Menuhin and Leonard Rose, guest artists in a performance of Brahms Double Concerto.

March 2-3—Pianist Gina Bachauer, guest soloist.

March 23-24—Soprano Irmgard Seefried, soloist.

April 13-14—Howard Mitchell, guest conductor, with violinist Joseph Szigeti, soloist.

May 4-5—Verdi's Requiem with four soloists (to be announced).

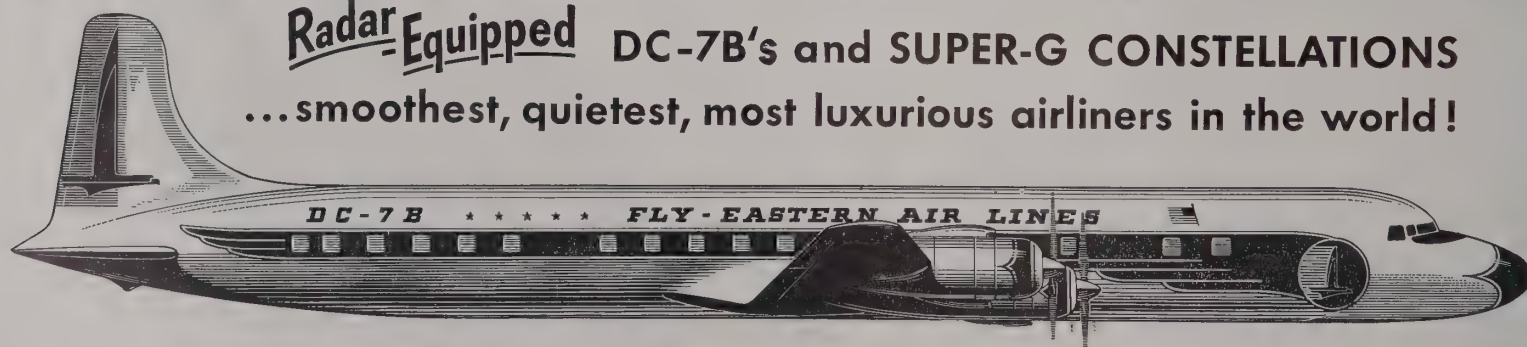

Six concerts have been presented so far this season. Guest conductors have included: Pierre Monteux, Andre Kostelanetz, Howard Hanson. Artists who have appeared as soloists with the UM Symphony are pianist Leonard Pennario, soprano Beverly Sills, violoncellist Raya Garbousova.

Tickets for remaining concerts in the thirtieth season and for the Summer "pops" series may be obtained by writing to the Symphony Office, University of Miami, Coral Gables 46.

A WEDDING OF MUCH INTEREST both in Palm Beach and in the North was that of Miss Elizabeth Gould Brokaw, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Vail Brokaw of Via Del Lago, Palm Beach and Oyster Bay, L. I., and Michael I. Maxtone-Graham of New York and Bass River, Mass., son of L. P. Maxtone-Graham of London, England, and Mrs. Maxtone-Graham of Bass River.

The wedding took place in the chapel of the St. James Episcopal Church, with the Rev. Dr. Arthur Lee Kinsolving, rector, officiating.

Given in marriage by her brother, William Vail Brokaw of Oyster Bay, L. I., formerly of Palm Beach, the bride wore an ivory satin dress and veil of eighteenth century Brussels and rosepoint lace. Her only attendant was Miss Carel Corcoran of Roslyn, L. I. The bridegroom's brother, John K. Maxtone-Graham, was the best man.

Another wedding was that of Andrew Thompson Montgomery, son of Mrs. Thompson Montgomery of Palm Beach and Washington, D. C., and Miss Edith Dorothy Ferris, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Ferris of Boston, Mass.

Their marriage took place at the Appleton Chapel of Harvard University in Cambridge. The young couple plan to reside in the Virgin Islands, where Mr. Montgomery has taken a position.

Miss Dorothy Gibb Whitlock, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Bache McEvers Whitlock of Palm Beach and Hewlett, L. I., was wed to Robert Louis Eppelein, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick L. Eppelein of Cuyahoga Falls, Ohio, in the chapel of the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church, New York City, followed by a reception at the Colony Club.

Bache McEvers Whitlock of Pass Christian, La., gave his sister in marriage and their sister, Mrs. Harold Mitchell Van Husan of North Lake Way, Palm Beach, was matron of honor.

The bridesmaids were Miss Judy Wells of Bermuda Lane, Palm Beach, and Miss Noel Bates of White Plains, N. Y. J. Riley Thompson of New York was best man, and the ushers were Emmett Whitlock, a brother of the bride, and Murray Toomey of Washington. After a wedding trip to Canada the couple is residing at 423 E. 70th St., New York City.

Mrs. George M. Pynchon of New York City and Louis M. Gourd, also of New York, formerly of Charleston, S. C., were married in the Royal Poinciana Chapel, with the Rev. Samuel M. Lindsay officiating at the service.

The bride is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Gardner W. Brown of New York City, and Mr. Gourd is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Henri E. Gourd, also of New York.

Following the wedding, Mr. and Mrs. William Howard Bell gave a small reception for them at the Bells' oceanfront villa. The couple will reside in New York City.

The BREAKERS

By Amy Lyman Phillips

THE BREAKERS is well started on its record for March, and has the highest house-count ever known for this, the 61st season of Breakers Hotels and the 31st for the present building, where the manager, Clarence W. Wannop, has promoted the interests of the resort with a number of improvements and changes this year.

The building of fourteen new, permanent cabanas of two stories on the extreme left of the Breakers Boardwalk, overlooking the ocean, is the first step toward building more and more of these double-deckers, for which many requests are being made. One across the Boardwalk at the extreme north end of The Breakers Cabana Club will be next in line, with others planned along the two-crescent-shaped line of Cabanas, but so placed as not to interfere with the ocean view from the "Oceanic", "Billows", "Seaside", and "Spray" cottages on South Ocean Walk.

Mrs. George Cole of Cleveland, Ohio, has one of the new cabanas here for the present season and another has been taken by Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Shaw of New York, on the second level. They happily affirm that it's almost like being out to sea on a great steamer, so intimate and inspiring is the view of the Atlantic Ocean from this point of vantage.

The Shaws are planning another trip to Europe during the coming Summer, this to include Spain and Portugal, and perhaps Majorca, so delighted have been past season visitors, including Mrs. Richard C. Crowley and Miss Marion G. Shevlin of The Breakers, with their last Summer's visit to these fascinating islands off the coast of Spain.

The Breakers colony is catholic in its tastes; some like spending the entire day at their cabanas where luncheons, card games and cocktail parties highlight the day, not to forget swimming.

There has been a decided, diet-minded season at The Breakers for many of its guests, the ladies in particular finding that continuous exercise at swimming in the Ocean or pool is conducive to waist-line diminishment.

One member of the Cabana Club from an inland city, spends the entire day at her cabana, in and out of the water, swims more than a mile daily, and boasts a difference of several inches in her waist line — several others also emulating her with more or less result.

Some also spend much time on the golf course, which gives a different set-up to reducing. That men, too, are proud of every little difference on the scales shows that they too, are not above taking off a pound or two — and what they do not eliminate through exercise, is accomplished by the masseurs.

The Breakers entertainment staff has a new artist in Miss Daniele Delbruyere, a soprano who has created a place for herself at The Breakers through her lovely voice and charm. She was here for February only, as Miss Suzanne Nicole returned this month for the remainder of the season. Joseph Thompson, baritone, is here all season. Ted Weegand and his orchestra do double time, with many rehearsals for these artists, also for the visiting artists on Vaudeville nights — Saturday evenings — when many have difficult musical routines to follow.

Many oldtime guests of The Breakers are enjoying March here, and distinguished ones arriving in February included Senator Donat Raymond and family of Montreal, P.Q., and Senator N. M. Paterson of Ottawa, Ont., who were at their own house on Sea Breeze Avenue a couple of weeks, releasing it to their son and his family who came early in February to occupy it.

The Canadian colony here is an important one, including Dr. and Mrs. J. E. Pollock, Mrs. Joseph Gundy, Mr. and Mrs. Conn Smythe, all of Toronto, Miss Janet Caruthers of Winnipeg, Mrs. R. J. Costello, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Savard and others of Montreal, some also from Quebec City, who are here annually to leave the chill weather.

March brings many annual visitors, among them being Mr. and Mrs. John E. Judson of South Orange, N. J.; Mr. and Mrs. Frederick W. Brooks, Mr. and Mrs. F. Gilmore Fletcher, George M. Gregory of New York,

Mr. and Mrs. William H. Gregory and family of East Islip, L. I.; Mr. and Mrs. E. C. D. Cameron of Ausable Forks, N. Y.

Also here for mid-season, or all March, are Mr. and Mrs. Ray A. Huber, Mr. and Mrs. Augustin Hardart, Mr. and Mrs. Peter J. McCoy, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene K. Denton, Mrs. William L. Stewart, Mrs. Frederick H. Bedford, all of New York.

Here also, or soon expected, are Mr. and Mrs. Louis L. Marron of Brielle, N. J., after their scientific cruise in South American

Many others including groups from Pittsburgh, Pa., Wilmington, Del., Washington, D. C., Baltimore, Md., Columbus, O. and other prominent cities, also agree that The Breakers in March is the best place in the world to be.

No, this is not a page from the "Bluebook" of Europe—it's the cortege and seating arrangements for the wedding of Princess Helene de France, second daughter of the Comte de Paris, pretender to the throne of France, and Comte Evrard de Limbourg-Stirum, nephew of Comte Charles de Limbourg-Stirum, grand-maitre of the court of ex-King Leopold de Belgique.

The celebrations and festivities connected with this fabulous marriage took place over a period of three days. The first day: In the home of the family of France, Coeur-Volant, located just outside of Paris, a grand-dinner-and-ball for 150 guests. The second day: The marriage civil, which was conducted in the local "city hall" just as any other marriage with the exceptions: because of the rank of Helene, there was a decoration of white lilies, and when the judge turned to the groom instead of saying "do you take this woman for your lawful wedded wife . . .", he asked: "do you consent to take for your legal wife Son Altesse Royale Helene Astrid Marie Comte de Limbourg-Stirum, father of the groom, and Comtesse de Paris, mother of the bride. In the background is the royal chapelle of Dreux.

Leopoldine, princesse d'Orleans?" Then turning to the bride: "Madame Helene Astrid Marie Leopoldine, princess d'Orleans, do you consent . . ." The third day: The marriage in the Royal Chapelle of Dreux, situated in the middle of a grand park overlooking the city. It was here that all the ducs d'Orleans were baptized, were married, and later buried: only two of them are not in the crypts under the chapelle—the Duc de Guise, father of the Comte de Paris, and his grandfather, who also carried the title of Comte de Paris, and who died in exile in England at the turn of the century.

The chapelle, which seats only 150 persons, was filled with the sound of organs accompanied by flutes—it was the "entree" of J. S. Bach, then the choir sang "Veni Creator" and "Kyrie" of Mozart; "Cantique de Racine" de Gabriel Faure; "O Salutaris" and "Agnus Dei" of Capelet; and to announce the end of the ceremony which lasted about an hour, they sang "Alleluia of King David" by Arthur Honegger. It was the Princess Helene, herself a talented pianist, who selected the music.

The younger brothers and sisters of Helene and Evrard were dressed as children of King Louis-Philippe. It was the idea of the Comtesse de Paris, who had the clothes designed after those of a painting which hangs in Coeur Volant, and which represents the children saying goodbye to their older brother, the Duc de Joinville, who was leaving to serve in the royal marine corps.

The boys wore pantaloons and veste of blue velvet with white shirts and lace collars. The girls wore long skirts and boleros of the same blue velvet.

Following the pages into the chapelle, the Princess wore a grand-court robe in white satin with brocade of small roses and train of five yards. Her immense veil was caught with a family diademe of sapphires and diamonds that was worn by her grandmother, Helene de France, the day of her marriage. The hairstyle of the bride was that of the fashion during the reign of Louis-Philippe.

The Comtesse de Paris wore a long robe in beige silk embroidered in darker brown, and topped by a mink stole in matching shade of brown. The Princess Diane, younger sister of Helene, wore a long robe with an enormous skirt made of green velvet. The mother, the bride and her sister were all three dressed by Dior.

Princess Isabelle de France, older sister of Helene, wore a long faille dress of princess lines made by Balmain. She wore a toque and muff of mink. The Princess Anne, another still younger sister, wore a robe of green silk velvet by Jacques Heim.

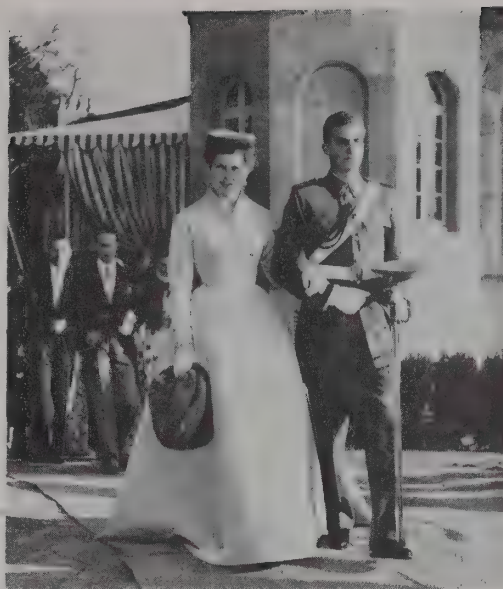

Princess Pierre Murat, sister of the Comte de Paris, wore a robe of red velvet, with a cosaque hat trimmed in mink. Her ensemble was designed by Jacques Fath.

Princess Marie-Christina de Savoie et d'Aoste wore a robe of green-chartreuse satin designed by Balmain.

Archiduchesse Robert de Habsbourg was dressed in a robe of dark-blue lace, also of Balmain.

The majority of hats for the wedding party were designed and made by Mme. Molotkoff.

The entrance to the chapelle was marked by over 300 yards of red carpet, and as the cortege assembled for the march down, the rules of protocol became the order of the day. It seems that an ex-ruler can be considered as a king or simply as a prince of blood, and as almost everyone there was either in a position of having ruled and lost his throne; or being a pretender to a non-existent throne; or of being a future sovereign, the situation became more than a little complicated, and there was the risk of hurting the feelings of many people — so, the age-old rules had to be revised in spots. First, the guests were divided into two groups: those that were related to the family of Orleans or to the family of Limbourg-Stirum, and those who were not related. With this plan established, it was decided that the second group would be the first to enter the chapelle. This group included several future sovereigns, as the Grand-Duc Jean de Luxembourg and the Duc of Sparte, and representatives of ruling families, such as Princess Alexandra of Kent, niece of Queen Elizabeth of England, who came to the wedding as an official representative of the British royal family.

The second group formed the veritable cortege, and at the head was eight-year-old Prince Thibaut, brother of the bride, who acted as ring-bearer. In the cortege there were a number of surprises that had little to do with protocol. The most outstanding was that Don Juan-Carlos, Prince of Asturias, offered his arm to Princess Isabelle de France. (And his right arm besides! However, it was because the handsome Don Juan is actually following the courses at the Military Academy of Saragosse, and at the wedding he wore his magnificent uniform complete with sword.) After the entrance into the chapelle, the descendant of Louis XIV, grandson of Alphonse XIII, and grandson of Queen Victoria, left the oldest daughter of the Comte de Paris to go to his chair in the first row: the place reserved for him because of his rank. In effect, his father, the official pretender to the throne of Spain, says that if the monarchie is ever restored to his country — he will abdicate in favor of his son. (After seeing Isabelle and Don Juan walking arm in arm, rumours were immediately sparked as to a possible future marriage . . .)

Queen Frederika of Greece, the only ruling sovereign present, protocolairement was the last to enter the chapelle. After all the guests were placed, the Comte and Comtesse de Paris returned to the door of the chapelle to escort the Queen to her place, which theoretically should be in front of the bridal couple, but in this case it was decided she should be placed in front, and apart from the other guests, but at an angle of three-quarters so as to face at the same time the couple and the altar.

Monseigneur Michon, Eveque de Chartres, standing before his throne draped in green velvet, gave his benediction, and read the benediction sent by telegram to the royal couple by His Holiness the Pope.

At the exchange of vows, when the Princess Helene was asked "Do you take this man . . ." protocol again is the reason for a rather unusual happening: At this moment, the Princesse Helene is obliged to turn and ask her father, in his capacity as pretender

The royal couple shown during the ring ceremony, just before receiving the benediction from Monseigneur, Eveque de Chartres, who also read the benediction sent by telegram from His Holiness the Pope. On either side of the couple are the witness. At the civil ceremony there were three, but here there are four.

Marie Therese, Duchess de Wurtemberg, with her fiance, Prince Henri de France, older brother of the bride. He also acted as a witness for the wedding, as a replacement for his uncle, the Duc de Bragance, head of the royal family of Portugal, who was to have been a witness but was taken ill at the last minute.

The Comtesse de Paris and the Comte de Paris shown as they were obliged by protocol to escort Queen Frederika of Greece to her place, after everyone else was settled.

to the throne of France, for his permission to reply to the question.

Quite the opposite from a marriage "Bourgeois," after the ceremony the protocol is completely bouleverse. For example, Queen Frederika leaves the chapelle walking between her two children, the Duc de Sparta and Princess Sophie.

But — in any case, the Comte and Comtesse de Paris haven't finished their battles with the difficulties of protocol . . . "Monseigneur" has another 10 children to marry, and the next wedding is already scheduled for July of this year: When the dauphin de France, Prince Henri, will marry Marie-Therese, Duchess de Wurtemberg.

Some 1500 guests were invited to a reception given at Coeur-Volant in the afternoon, and as it is not large enough to receive all of them at the same time they were invited in two shifts: the first one from 3 o'clock until 5 o'clock, and the others later.

The new Comte and Comtesse Evrard de Limbourg-Stürum stood on the balcony of the chateau to receive the acclamations of their friends and to wave good-bye as the last guest took leave. They then said farewell to the personnel of the house and Helene cut her veil to give little pieces: She said it would "porte-bonheur" (bring happiness).

The young couple, after their honeymoon, will make their home in Southern Rhodesia, where since three years the comte has had an experimental-farm 50 miles from Salisbury in the heart of the savage country of the negro bantous. They spent a two-week holiday there this Summer, just as a prelude to their future life — as farmers on an African ranch . . .

Prince Jerome-Xavier-Marie-Joseph-Victor Napoleon was born January 14th to Prince and Princess Louis Napoleon, and has just been baptized by Son Excellence Cardinal Feltin, Archeveque of Paris. The Godmother was Princess Alberic de Foresta, mother of the Princess Louis Napoleon, and the Godfather was Prince Xavier de Bourbon-Parme.

There's not a more representative, intelligent or attractive couple in France than the Prince and Princess Louis Napoleon. They would be outstanding in any country, and yet with all their qualities and their assured position, they are among the most retiring, modest and unpretentious people I know. The Prince is a very human person — just as interested in the thoughts and actions of the working man as he is in his friends. He spends a great deal of time personally superintending his vast estates in Italy, Belgium and the Belgian Congo, which he operates on a business basis.

He has been brought up with the finest conception of tradition — tradition in the form of service to one's country and one's fellow men. He was taught this at a very early age by his mother, Princess Clementine, who devoted her life to good words and care of others. She was the daughter of Leopold II of Belgium. The Prince is also through his mother a great-great-grandson of King Louis-Philippe of France, and is likewise the great-great-grandson of Jerome Napoleon, the youngest brother of Napoleon I. Jerome was twice married — first to an American living in Baltimore and then to the daughter of the King of Westphalia. It is from this second marriage that the family of Prince Napoleon is descended. He was born in Brussels because at that time France had exiled the Royal and Napoleonic families.

In 1950 his exile-law was definitely lifted by the French government on account of his patriotic activities, and his daughter, Princess Laura-Clementine, born in 1952, marked the first time in eighty-six years that a descendant of Napoleon had been born on French soil.

Apropos of babies: Monaco has just about recovered from the birth of Princess Caroline. That is to say, from the celebrations connected with Madame's arrival. But as the cannons roared out their twenty-one shots to announce her arrival — they put twenty-one holes in the golden dream of Marquis Grimaldi. But, nevertheless, the Marquis lifted his glass of ale in a little country-pub, and gallantly offered a toast to the heiress of Monaco. He is the pretender to the throne of Monaco, now held by Prince Rainier III.

Rightfully his, or so he says, are the lush and sun-drenched acres, the hilltop castle, the gambling casino, the private zoo and all the other accessories of royalty such as yachts and uniforms.

Rightfully his wife's by the same token, are the minks and diamonds, the state tiaras and necklaces, and the perfumed luxury enjoyed by Princess Grace.

Although the Grimaldis are reduced at the moment to a tiny, chilly trailer on a bleak and windswept hilltop, they absolutely refuse to be envious. "Jolly fine fellow, Rainier," murmurs the marquis, who is 48 and shares a strong likeness to the present ruler. "Lovely Girl, Princess Grace," beams his wife, who is an English woman named Kate.

An old royalist standing by could hardly believe his ears. This isn't the way pretenders roar in the history books. "Aren't you going to raise an army or something and get back your throne?" he demanded.

"Dear me, no," said the marquis aghast. "I mean, the throne is mine, even the College of Arms agrees that I alone descend through the direct male line, but a military campaign . . .!"

"How about appealing to the United Nations?"

"I don't like the idea of washing our family linen in public," he said sadly, then added "especially with the Russians in the Security Council. Look what they did to the Czar!"

The Marquis, who had to give up the business he had because of the gasoline shortage, confesses that he has often thought it would be nice to look out at the blue Mediterranean from the windows of a palace, rather than face a muddy hill from the window of a trailer. "But I don't like the idea of embarrassing Rainier and Princess Grace," he said, especially when they have just had Princess Caroline.

"But it really is my throne. You see, the King of Sardinia forced my ancestor, Marquis Alexander Maria, to abdicate the crown of Monaco in favor of his daughter, Princess Hippolyte. Alexander Maria, the rightful ruler, went to Britain in 1695 and there he married a Scotswoman. I descend from them. Princess Hippolyte married a commoner, who changed his name to Grimaldi. That commoner is the ancestor of Prince Rainier, and of Princess Caroline. Grimaldi isn't even their right name . . ."

IT'S A DOG'S LIFE at Sea Island! If you find that statement difficult to believe, let's take a cross-section look at life on the Island on a given afternoon in—well, let's say March.

The day is balmy and bright. Out of the driveway of a big house slides a long, black limousine. As it rolls smoothly along The Drive, we see that its sole occupants, other than a uniformed chauffeur, are four aristocratic looking French Poodles. Grandly ensconced on the back seat, their brushed coats gleaming in the sunlight, they sit there, regally dignified, yet alert and obviously enjoying the ride behind the driver whose daily chore it is to see that they get this deluxe "airing." These pampered poodles are the pets of Mrs. Harry Stratton.

Elsewhere on The Drive, a fine pedigreed mother Poodle is expecting the stork. In a well appointed "nursery" on the beautiful estate all is in readiness, even to the registered nurse who has been engaged for the occasion and to care for the "babies" afterward . . . The big bird arrives with a cuddlesome litter; all goes well and before long the local beauty operator is called in to trim and style their silken hair. Next, a photographer appears on the scene and before long the master of the house has had their likenesses embossed on his highball glasses.

In still another home on this fabulous Drive a veteran Welsh Springer named Freckles — a dog with a musical ear — stretches luxuriously on a cool, polished floor, his tired old eyes blinking weakly as he gazes through the open door, across the rolling sand dunes to the sea. Too lazily content even to amble down to the Beach and scare the gulls, he is engaged in his favorite occupation, that of listening to his mistress, the famed harpist, Artiss de Volt, as she rehearses for a concert. Born in an exclusive Virginia College and reared there, he is a true dog of culture and is treated as such, even to being permitted to play with the seven pedals of the harp as his mistress plucks the strings!

Practically everybody who lives in this resort owns from one to half a dozen dogs, most of them pedigreed, pampered and beautiful, a few just plain "dog," but all enjoying life to the utmost in this dog's paradise.

Of course, where so many people have dogs there is bound to be a lot of doggie talk when crowds get together . . . One Island matron is having her female dog psychoanalyzed to learn why it cannot bear pups; a family is preparing to go back North for the Summer and has engaged a dog sitter to stay in the house during the time they are gone; the entire Island grieves at the news that an eagle has killed young Kappy Jones' toy fox terrier while it was playing on the beach in front of her home . . . and a noted sportsman, Daniel E. Pomeroy, now retired and living on the Island, has had a $2500 portrait painted of his champion Labrador Retriever. So it goes . . .

Perhaps the cutest story is the one describing the manner in which Dr. Ira G. Towson, Island medic, became the owner of "Muffin," a doorstep foundling but a real "personality kid" among dogs. An automobile with a New York license plate was seen to stop in nearby Brunswick one day and the occupants instructed a little dog to get out and sit and wait in a spot in front of the drug store. Obediently the dog complied; the car drove away and the little dog was still sitting in that very spot hours later when the store closed. The good doctor gave the abandoned dog a home and was rewarded by finding that he not only has an adorable pet but one that is unusually bright and trained to do tricks, even to dancing!

Not all of the dogs on Sea Island are owned by cottagers. Many of the hotel staff members have them too. It is a familiar sight to see Mrs. Ruth Riddell, executive housekeeper at The Cloister, walking about the parks and grounds with three or four of her pedigreed Dachshunds on leash . . . Johnnie Lucas, the Beach Club manager, owns a splendid pair of Welsh Corgis which he daily exercises on the beach to their immense delight . . . Marion McKendree, golf course greens superintendent, has a dog so intelligent that it has been taught to caddy . . .

Yes, Sea Island is a heavenly spot for dogs. Even when they are not pampered, just to be here is enough. Take, for instance, a pair of somewhat Bohemian coach dogs that live at the stables. No one ever takes them for a ride in a limousine. They've never been manicured, brushed nor psychoanalyzed; neither has a dog sitter ever been engaged to care for them. Yet, what could be more to a coach dog's taste than to be able forever to pad at the heels of horseback riders along bridle-paths shaded by great moss-draped oaks, across dried salt marshes, up and down the undulating dunes and along miles of wide, flat beach, wetting their feet from time to time in the curling waves?

But alas, there's no such thing as perfection in this world, and even a dog's life at Sea Island must have its flaws. No matter how aristocratic Rover may be; how long his pedigree or how fine his manners, he cannot get a membership in the exclusive Sea Island Beach Club. In fact, he'd dog-gone better stay out and that goes even for the manager's pups! The most heavenly spot on the Island simply isn't a part of dog heaven.

THE ATMOSPHERE AT THE BILTMORE is that of continuous activity engaged in by guests who look forward to returning annually to their "Winter home". For without exception, once a guest has enjoyed the hospitality and luxurious comfort of this world-renowned lakefront hostelry, he realizes its unequaled opportunities for vacations par excellence.

Cocktail parties, dances, Hawaiian parties, water shows, beach parties and fashion shows; all are part of the varied program designed specifically for the guest's entertainment. The Gala Parties originating in the Tropical Room are scenes of carefree gaiety tuned to the lilting strains of Paul Sparr's Meyer Davis Orchestra.

Some of the guests and visitors at a recent party were Mr. and Mrs. Patricio J. Perrusi of New York, who entertain frequently during their annual sojourn at the Biltmore; Mr. and Mrs. Ralph M. Holt of Burlington, N. Y.; a party of four included Colonel and Mrs. E. J. Newman of New York and Mr. and Mrs. John D. Casey Sr., of White Plains, N. Y.; Mr. and Mrs. George O'Brian of Boston with Mr. and Mrs. Herman Hohmann and daughter, Lynne, of Lake Success, N. Y. Also Mr. and Mrs. Jack Schiff and Mr. and Mrs. William Schiff of Columbus, Ohio; Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Kan of Forest Hills, N. Y.; Mr. and Mrs. Irving Winkel were hosts to Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Strisik, Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Small, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Bergen, Mrs. Anita Tuman and Dr. and Mrs. Manuel Tesser; in another party were Mrs. G. R. Green, Mrs. Guitelle, Mrs. Charles Reisman, Mrs. S. Cohen, Allan Westmore, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Hirsch, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Nadler and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Jacovy. Smaller groups at the Gala included Miss Barbara Riggs and her escort, Dr. Ronald Curtis; Mr. and Mrs. Fred New of New York; Mr. and Mrs. John Smith and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Smith of Downing Town, Pa.; Mrs. Effie Ancelewitz and Mrs. Kathryn Stafford; Mr. and Mrs. Atwood C. Wolf of Jersey City, N. J. and Dr. Martin Gray of New York.

Just as the Tropical Room vibrates with activity later in the evening, during the cocktail hour the Biltmore Florida Room is filled with parties. College students, relaxing during the mid-year holiday, increased the numbers at each social function. The Misses Sheila Kallan and Cathy Crotty of Trinity College, Washington, D. C.; and Miss Paulette Gutierrez of Vassar who arrived with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Raul Gutierrez of Havana, were just a few who took advantage of the activity.

Miss Gladys Shelley of New York is a guest at the Biltmore this season. She is one of the top feminine lyric song writers in her field. She is here with her husband, Irving Rosenthal, and her mother, Mrs. Fannie Shaskin.

Everyone loves champagne, and each Friday evening at the Champagne Hour in the Florida Room, two bottles are awarded to the best dancers chosen by the audience. The fun and festivities are under the direction of Wynters and Angeline, romantic dancing stars.

Arrivals are R. Campbell of Vancouver, B. C.; Mrs. M. Madsen of Copenhagen, Denmark; Mrs. J. McSweeney of Montreal, Canada; Mrs. Jack Bartholomew of London, England; Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Seltzer of Havana, Cuba; Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Vinsen of Toronto, Canada; and Miss Anna Marie Nati of Florence, Italy. The Palm Beach Biltmore is truly the lodestone of the haut monde.

A drive down the fairway of the lovely 18-hole course at Ponte Vedra.

Ponte Vedra

By Madolyn Borum

LOCATED ON OCEAN HIGHWAY, A1A, midway between Jacksonville and historic St. Augustine, is Ponte Vedra. This Florida resort has long been a favorite vacation site for residents of the States, Canada, and other parts of the world.

On approaching Ponte Vedra, one sees the rolling green fairways of the famous 18-hole golf course, guest cottages and apartments along the oceanfront and the beautiful Inn. At The Surf Club, also located on the oceanfront just south of The Inn, guests enjoy swimming in the fresh water pool or surf, dining and dancing in the patio, cocktails in the lounge and dining in the air-conditioned dining room.

Many golfers feel the Ponte Vedra course is truly one of the finest in the nation. Convenient it is too with the first tee being only fifty feet from the "backdoor" of The Inn. Robert Trent Jones, the famous golf course designer, has simplified the course for the average player without destroying its excitement for the expert. The course, with wide palm lined fairways, stretches along the ocean and surrounds beautiful lagoons. The turf on the greens, tees and fairways is unsurpassed. The ninth island green is perhaps the most photographed hole in America and has appeared on the covers of many national magazines.

In addition to golf and swimming, other activities enjoyed by vacationers include tennis on Teniko green topped courts, pitch and putt, putting on the Green directly in front of The Inn, and fishing in the fresh water Lagoon or in the surf of the Atlantic.

The decor of the rooms and suites of this resort harmonizes with the scene outside and all, of course, are air-conditioned as are the dining rooms of The Inn and cocktail lounge. The cuisine is unsurpassed with thoughtful service given at all times.

At present, a complete program of renovation is underway at The Golf Club to be finished in the early Spring. The facilities consisting of locker rooms, club storage room, pro shop and dining and cocktail room, will provide the last word in "19th hole" demands.

Quite an entertainment program is ever present at Ponte Vedra with a social hostess always available to 'assist' but not 'insist'. During June, July and August, a junior hostess is added to the staff to plan and direct the activities of the vacationing children. There's dancing under the stars at The Surf Club during the summer months and in The Cactus Room at The Inn the other weeks in the year. Other activities include card parties, special entertainment, movies and weekly guest cocktail parties when the General Manager, Mr. Luther N. Grimes, and his staff entertain new arrivals.

At Ponte Vedra one finds an atmosphere of informal dignity, graciousness and unprecedented charm.

JUST LOOK OUT any window — walk out any door and all around Ponte Vedra you will see shrubs and flower gardens in riotous bloom. A lovelier spot would be difficult to find during this time of year. The putting green directly in front of The Inn is surrounded with gardens displaying tall sturdy snapdragons, delphinium and other budding plants.

And, as Spring returns every year, so do Ponte Vedra vacationers. Recent arrivals at The Inn have included Mr. and Mrs. Dunbar Abston of Memphis; Mr. and Mrs. Edwin L. Bruce Jr., also of Memphis; N. A. Cocke of Charlotte, N. C.; Mr. and Mrs. Clifford F. Favrot of New Orleans; Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Foley of Vancouver, B.C., Canada; Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Forbes and son, Howard, of Manhasset, N. Y.; Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Freeman of New Orleans.

Mr. and Mrs. Bowman Gray of Winston-Salem, N. C.; Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Green of Birmingham, Ala.; Harold H. Helm of New York City; Mr. and Mrs. Howard Holder-ness of Greensboro, N. C.; Mr. and Mrs. Cola G. Parker of Neenah, Wis.; Dr. and Mrs. Huston St. Clair of Tazewell, Va.; Mr. and Mrs. John A. Sibley and Mr. and Mrs. Edward D. Smith of Atlanta.

Ready to give Ponte Vedra's lovely 18-hole course a twirl are Brown L. Whatley, James C. Hagerty and Mrs. Hagerty and Mrs. Whatley. The Whatleys are from Jacksonville (Fla.) and the Hagertys, Washington, D. C.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Thompson of Dallas; Mr. and Mrs. Norfleet Turner of Memphis (they celebrated a wedding anniversary while visiting The Inn); and Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Hammesfahr of Darien, Conn.

Needless to say, one hardly gets his bag unpacked before heading to The Surf Club or stepping out to the beach for a swim. Somehow there is nothing quite so refreshing after a day of travel. After the cooling dip you are ready for an evening filled with pleasure. Dinner in one of the beautifully decorated dining rooms with food and service at its best, later chatting with old friends in the lounge over demi-tasse, followed perhaps by dancing in the Cactus Room. If it seems that 'lady luck' is standing at your side and bridge is more to your liking, a foursome is easily arranged.

As a new day dawns bright and clear it's naturally time to get out on the golf course. Whether a duffer or in the pro category, a practice swing or two and you're off for 18-holes of great fun. As the new golf club approaches completion all guests and Club members are showing much enthusiasm about the new facilities. Nice it will be too with the new locker rooms, club storage room, pro shop and the dining and cocktail area where one can have a perfect view of the famous ninth island green and the lovely lagoon from the floor to ceiling glass enclosure. The Club will be air-conditioned throughout with wall to wall carpeting underfoot. At present all of us are anxiously awaiting the day (very soon now) when this latest project is completed.

Quite recently one of the guest cottages underwent such a renovation program. Formerly known as Donax, the new Driftwood Cottage is a most desired accommodation. Mr. and Mrs. James H. Hagerty, the first to occupy the delightful abode, agreed whole heartedly. After the recent presidential campaign and the busy days of the inauguration, President Eisenhower's Press Secretary chose Ponte Vedra for vacation headquarters. He and Mrs. Hagerty enjoyed the surf, pool and played golf daily. Frequently golfing with them were friends from Washington, also guests of The Inn, Mr. and Mrs. M. W. Fillius.

While vacationers take advantage of the many facilities provided by Ponte Vedra, so do Club members and local residents. The Ponte Vedra Women's Golf Association members competed in the annual Club Championship Tournament and Mrs. R. M. Kingsley defeated Miss Dorothea Knight 1 up for 20

Among tennis enthusiasts frequently present for ladies' day at the tennis courts are: Mesdames Louis Ricus, Lester Leaptrott, Aileen Hansen, David Drury and Walter Ayles. All are Ponte Vedra residents.

holes. First flight winner was Mrs. C. L. Hoffman who defeated Mrs. Ding Butler 2 up. And in the Second Flight Mrs. W. G. Thomas defeated Mrs. D. Gibbons 2 and 1. Winner of the 9 hole play in the tournament was Mrs. L. L. Passmore who defeated Mrs. E. B. LeMaster 1 up.

At the tennis courts, Pro Dave Drury is making plans for the Junior Championship Tournament which will get underway in the very near future. Young tennis enthusiasts are eyeing the handsome trophy with determination and all have ideas as to just where it may be placed in the home to show off to the best advantage.

Card night is a favorite among many guests. Above are Mrs. G. P. Whitter of Atlanta, Ga., and from Jacksonville (Fla.), Mrs. U. S. Anderson, Mrs. William J. Koenig and Mrs. T. J. Doyle.

Both young and older fishing enthusiasts are enjoying days spent with rod and reel in hand by the shore of the fresh water lagoon. Since the bream and bass are co-operating nicely these days by taking the bait, a few pleasant hours result in fish on the table. It seems the Chef at The Inn takes great pride in preparing the tasty morsels for these guests.

But as the Chef takes pride in his position so do the other members of the staff of Ponte Vedra which assures vacationers a wonderful holiday - long lazy days or ones full of activity.

Four Arts Members Acclaim Minneapolis Art Treasures

ALL PHOTOS BY MINNEAPOLIS INSTITUTE OF ARTS

SELDOM, IF EVER, in the 20 years Palm Beach's cultural life has revolved largely around the Society of the Four Arts, has the membership there accorded such unanimous acclaim to a show as it did to the recent "Exhibition of Paintings and Sculpture" from the Minneapolis Institute of Arts.

With one accord, those whose taste veers to the traditional and those who are more amenable to the modern trends, united in voicing pleasure at the opportunity of viewing a compact show of art of the ages.

The 25 paintings and eight sculptures, gleaned from the finest of the Minneapolis Institute's outstanding permanent collection, came to Palm Beach directly from New York, where they were displayed at the Knoedler Gallery and greeted with warmest enthusiasm by metropolitan critics. Chosen on the basis of quality, the collection also had the added value of presenting examples of various schools from 14th Century Italian Primitives to Matisse.

The Minneapolis Institute of Arts ranks high among American museums concentrating on the task of gathering treasures of the past. For years it has followed the policy of acquiring and preserving works of art of highest quality, representative examples of all media and periods. Its recent purchases of modern paintings and sculpture have placed it in the ranks of the leading art centers of the country.

As a result it was in an enviable position to foster an exhibition of this sort, arranged for dual showing as a benefit for the Institute, proceeds to go into a fund for the institution's works of art. Half of the works have never previously been shown in New York or the country at large; one painting and four pieces of sculpture are recent acquisitions not yet shown in Minneapolis.

As a result the exhibition afforded a rare opportunity to both Four Arts members and the art lovers at large in Palm Beach, as the art shows are always open several weeks to the public without charge after the previews, to see for the first time many really rare masterpieces.

"SELF PORTRAIT WITH DOCTOR ARRIETA" (1820)
Francisco Goya, Spanish, 1746-1828

After a constant succession of modern and one-man shows, art lovers welcomed the chance of re-discovering the innate beauties of the Old Masters and of seeing well-known later schools, such as the Impressionists and Post-Impressionists in relation to earlier works.

Though French painters predominated, numbering half of the 25 artists represented, the Gallic influence was noted primarily in the 19th Century. From the earlier centuries came such rich works as "Christ Driving the Money Changers from the Temple", an early El Greco; the eloquently poignant "Lucretia" by Rembrandt; the lush, magnificent group, "Sketch for Ceiling of Banqueting Hall" by Rubens; the tragically somber "Self Portrait with Doctor Arrieta" by Goya; two tranquil, low-key, lovely Dutch landscapes by Hobbema and Van Ruysdael respectively; the charming, genre style "Prodigal Son" by the Flemish Teniers the Younger.

Not yet seen in Minneapolis was the big scale "View of the Grand Canal" by Fran-

Though the work of the Impressionists and Post-Impressionists needed little introduction to Four Arts members, who have known previously the excitement of one-man shows by Van Gogh, Gauguin, Matisse and Bonnard, they welcomed the opportunity of seeing representative works by these and others of the era.

Claude Monet, Edgar Degas, Pierre Auguste Renoir, Camille Pissarro, Paul Cezanne, Georges Seurat, all were to be found in the company of the other four. There are probably finer examples of the work of some . . . though no more engaging Degas than his "Mlle Hortense Valpincon" would be imagined . . . but all in the show proved highly representative and of fine quality, pointing up the contributions each artist made to the art of that age.

The sculpture was limited in number, with a preponderance of emphasis on the past, but shining against the ancient Oriental, Greek and Mexican art loomed the gleaming Brancusi column known as "The Yellow Bird", a pean to the present.

The Minneapolis show is the third major exhibition at the Four Arts this Winter, under the directorship of Russell A. Plimpton, who came here this year from the Minneapolis Institute after 35 years there. The exhibition program is closing with "Prints and Drawing by Toulouse Lautrec, continuing until April 7, a week later than the Four Arts usually remains open.

The COLONY Hotel

THE PEAK OF THE SEASON finds the Colony virtually filled to capacity with all of the penthouses occupied, according to Bernard H. Cooley, president and general manager of the hotel.

Penthouse residents include: Mr. and Mrs. G. K. Lilly of Indianapolis, Ind.; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Quigley, New York; Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Nichols, West Orange, N. J.

These luxurious and spacious "homes" atop the Colony are analogous to your own villa by the sea . . . attractively furnished and equipped, and the panoramic view of Palm Beach and environs is incomparable in the resort.

Colony guests from New York for a Winter holiday: Mr. and Mrs. Edward Grooper, Mrs. Eugene Ong and Mrs. L. N. Stockard, Dr. Bruce Webster, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Kennelly, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Suide, the Hon. and Mrs. Michael Astor, Mr. and Mrs. Leon Moore, Capt. Sheldon, Henry D. Kauffman, Mr. and Mrs. S. Nirenberg, John D'Anitolo, the Rev. James Keller (head of the Christophers), Mr. and Mrs. Frank T. Reilly, Miss Mary Howes, founder of the Palm Beach Playhouse.

Dr. and Mrs. Carlos E. Bonneau of Argentina are at the hotel for several weeks stay. Also, Mr. and Mrs. Frederic Rosengarten of Guatemala City.

From Chicago, Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Gallagher, Herman Waldeck, Mr. and Mrs. Frank C. Callahan (he is president of Health-O-Mor Inc.).

Other Winter residents at the Colony for extended sojourns and Winter vacations: Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Cosgrove, Mankato, Minn.; J. L. Touro, Boston; Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Mott, Philadelphia (he is Chairman of the Board, S.K.F. Industries Inc.); Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Dietrich, LeSeuer, Minn.; Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Molte, Baltimore, Md.; Miss Lillian Jenkins, Manhattan; Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Lane, Jacksonville, Fla.; William Peckham, Newport, R. I.; Mr. and Mrs. George Parsons, Ardmore, Pa. Mrs. L. Lee, Washington, D. C.

From Cuernavaca, Mexico, Mr. and Mrs. Frederic A. Gimbel.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Mosey Jr. of Grosse Pointe, Mich., are at The Colony for several week's stay. Also Mr. and Mrs. Hollis R. Lowell of "Ten Acres", Falmouth, Mass.; H. G. Liese, Scarsdale, N. Y.; Mr. and Mrs. Arnold McLachlan, Danbury, Conn.; Mr. and Mrs. William Nolan, Grafton, Wis.; Mr. and Mrs. J. R. McAlpin, Bridgeport, Conn.

Lillian and Dorothy Gish, relaxing at the Colony Hotel Bath Club. They starred in the first Palm Beach Playhouse production of the season "The Chalk Garden," and liked the resort so much stayed on for several week's holiday.

Noted lunching there . . . Mrs. Elizabeth Robertson, Harry Lee Stuart, Dr. Anson L. Clark, Col. W. E. Hill (all of Texas) and Mr. and Mrs. William Morss of Boston.

In another group, the famous Gish sisters (Lillian and Dorothy) who starred in the opening show, "The Chalk Garden" at the Palm Beach Playhouse, and several friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Lihme were hosts at a luncheon for ten in the Terrace Room of the Colony. This is a delightful luncheon or dining spot . . . glass-enclosed, overlooking the pool and Bath Club area. The decor is pink, highlighted with wall murals depicting the early days of the resort. The bamboo bar in one corner of the room is an architectural oddity; follows the contour of the room and seems to be an integral part of the entire picture.

Colony guests find the hotel location ideal as it is in close proximity to everything of importance . . . golf and tennis, night spots, shopping, charming restaurants. And, easily accessible to theatres, schools, churches, art galleries, private clubs, the "stock market".

Air-conditioned throughout, the hotel is also popular as a Summer vacation choice. The temperature-controlled, filtered, circulating salt water pool adds to the enjoyment of your holidays . . . right on the premises, it is convenient for the daily dip and sun-tanning on the poolside terrace. It is one of the few major hotels in Palm Beach open all-year-round.

RETURNING FOR THEIR SECOND VISIT to the Brazilian Court are Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Ward of Boston, Mass., who will be at the hotel for a month's stay. Also Mrs. William Ross Harper of Philadelphia, Pa. Remaining throughout the season, Mrs. Percy Anderson from Fairfield, Conn. And Mrs. Fred O'Hara, Norwich, N. Y. Arriving for several weeks' Winter holidays . . . Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Longshore, Philadelphia; John K. Herbert (on the staff of the American Weekly) and Edwin C. Kennedy of New York City; Mrs. E. A. Pruden of the same place; Mr. and Mrs. Albert Webber Jr., of Decatur, Ill., who are spending their third season at the Brazilian Court; Mrs. Charles Hawley, Boston; Mr. and Mrs. George A. Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Nesbitt, North Tarrytown, N. Y., are at the hotel for their third seasonal visit. From Kirkwood, Mo., Mr. and Mrs. Charles Day and daughter Rowena. Repeating their visit of last year, Mr. and Mrs. William L. Butler, Newton Square, Pa.; Mrs. Henry T. Chickering, Manhattan; Mrs. Warren A. King, New York. From the deep South, Mrs. A. Goodwin, Anniston, Ala. Mrs. J. Warren Vedder has arrived from Osterville, Mass., for an extended sojourn.

Started a number of years ago and now a part of the cultural phase of the resort, the Brazilian Court Round Table, which comprises several dozen top business and professional men, who discuss important topics of the day, led by a moderator (one of the group). They meet three times a week in the tropical patio of the hotel and discuss everything from news headlines to music, art and politics. While originated for guests of the Brazilian Court, the idea has become so popular that a number of outstanding men from the hotel and cottage colony have asked to join the group . . . which grows in size as the season advances.

The tropical dining loggia and cocktail lounge is one of the important places in Palm Beach for entertaining friends at cocktails, luncheon and dinner. The attractive umbrella-topped tables are set amid colorful tropical trees and foliage, centering an Italian fountain. During the dinner hour there is music by the Brazilian Court trio. If you prefer a more sheltered atmosphere, the dining terrace overlooking the patio is a delightful choice.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Baxter of New York City, who are at the Brazilian Court for a Winter holiday.

Among those entertaining at the Brazilian Court recently: Mr. and Mrs. Uz McMurtrie (seasonal guests there), who were hosts at a dinner party. Mrs. Walter Lasher entertained at cocktails and dinner for a group of six. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Heiss hosted a small dinner, as did Mrs. Thomas Dyer, Mrs. William H. Buck, Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Nesbitt, Dr. Paul B. Magnuson, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Edwards, Mr. and Mrs. James Spencer Love, Mr. and Mrs. John Richards and Mr. and Mrs. Philip See.

The Brazilian Court continues to be the choice for a Winter holiday or seasonal visit for many of America's topflight families. Numerous guests have been coming to the hotel year after year for many seasons. The hotel also has a large number of Winter visitors from Canada . . . Montreal, Ontario, Winnipeg.

WHITEHALL

By Mary Jane Feifarek

Caught by the photographer while enjoying the sun on the boardwalk at Sun and Surf are Mr. and Mrs. Morris Saady of London, England.

WHEN HENRY MORRISON FLAGLER decided to make Palm Beach his Florida headquarters, he called on Carrere & Hastings of New York, one of the two most famous architectural firms in the world to build "the finest residence you can think of." Equipped with this carte blanche, they created the magnificent Whitehall.

Upon the completion of Whitehall in 1902, The New York Herald on March 30 of that year published: "More wonderful than any palace in Europe, grander and more magnificent than any other private dwelling in the world is Whitehall, the new home

Henry M. Flagler has built in the Land of the Flowers. In every detail in this palace the work has been so thorough that he who visits it would be led to believe the structure was built a hundred years ago instead of being a product of the present day, just released from the builders' hands. In the grouping of sculpture, tapestry, rugs, antique furniture, ceramics, bronzes and panels, there is nothing in the world to equal Whitehall."

Perhaps the most brilliant social season for the empire builder and his wife was the Winter of 1902. Whitehall became the mecca for the country's most socially prominent visitors and wealthiest citizens: Admiral George Dewey, hero of Manila Bay; Elihu Root, Cabinet member in the Theodore Roosevelt Administration; and notable contemporaries of Flagler's as John Astor, Henry T. Sloane, Lyman G. Gage and P. C. Knox.

The story is told that when Flagler set out to create the marble palace for his third wife, which she christened Whitehall, he planned a typical Cuban mansion but as plans developed, it became apparent that the conditions he had set for size, height and arrangement could not be carried out on such a scale. Thus, beyond the Spanish court known as Palm Court and the rare varieties of shrubs and palms imported from Cuba, Whitehall is regal architecture rather than Spanish or Cuban.

A monument to a great era in American history when quality surpassed quantity, Whitehall is said to be the most structurally sound edifice in all Palm Beach. A similar structure could not be reproduced at any cost. Many of the materials used in the construction of Whitehall are no longer available and the treasures of art brought to Whitehall from Europe and the Far East cannot be duplicated or substitutes of equal quality procured.

Blending the old with the new when Whitehall was converted into a hotel in 1925, the same flawless workmanship in architecture, furnishings and decor was employed in keeping with the mansion. Rooms and suites, while modern to the last word in convenience and comfort for Whitehall guests, retain the elegance of a private home. And although Whitehall has retained its elegance, facilities for fun and recreation are among the very best.

Besides the mansion with its late afternoon and evening affairs, Whitehall maintains two outstanding clubs—the Sun and Surf Beach Club and Palm Beach Country Club. Sun and Surf is nestled close to the sea with roomy cabanas and sun decks. It is a veritable village with its own swimming pool, tennis courts, spacious patio for luncheons and chummy clubhouse. Popular with those who know the superb in golfing accommodations is the Palm Beach Country Club which provides an 18-hole course challenging to the most accomplished wielder of brassie and niblick.

Every night is dance night at Whitehall with music by one of the best bands in the land — Ruby Newman and his master musicians. Smart night spot entertainment is to be found nightly in the exotic Jardin Royale overlooking Lake Worth.

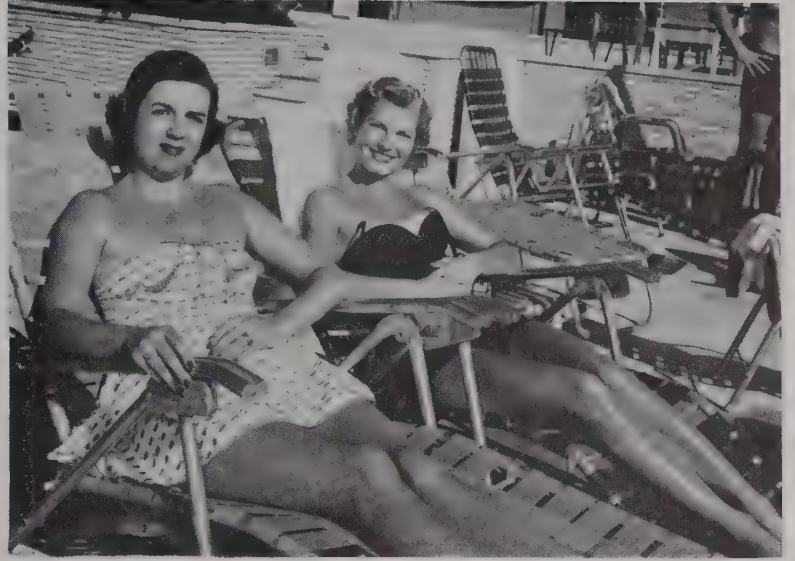

Daily afternoon affairs include Afternoon Tea served in tranquil Palm Court and cocktail dancing in the scintillating cocktail lounge where dancing before dinner is an every-day affair.

NAPLES - ON - THE - GULF, Florida has taken on a very gay and festive atmosphere as the Winter season is at it's height. Northerners from the snow and ice have been coming in every day to the favorite hotel of the West Coast, The Beach Club Hotel. For years tourists, particularly from Ohio, Illinois, New York and Pennsylvania, have found Naples the Garden Spot of Florida. However, in the past two years Southerners have been registering in large numbers, especially those from Virginia, Tennessee and the Carolinas.

Naples has been called the "Star of the Florida Boom" but this refers to the growth of beautiful homes and well planned streets that abound with majestic Royal Palms. Naples still retains the restful atmosphere as it is properly zoned and away from the crowded beaches, commercial hotels and motels.

the tranquil waters of the Gulf. The gorgeous sunsets observed here are famous the world over. The people relax under the Royal Palms playing shuffleboard, bowling on the green, and also play tennis on the three all weather tennis courts.

The Beach Club offers exceptional cuisine in it's beautifully appointed dining rooms, namely, "The Reef", "The Jewel Box" and "The Sea Sprite".

The picturesque Barbeque Pit is located on the edge of the Gulf under the Sea Grape Trees, thus offering a most pleasant setting for the "al fresco" cook-outs on Thursday evenings. These have become extremely popular with the guests.

The noon day buffet and brunch held in the Harlequin patio have proven very popular, and in addition the Hotel has incorporated a new feature this Winter with a cabaret in the Patio featuring some of the most outstanding artists in comedy and music.

Romar and Howard with their most unusual act have just completed a three weeks engagement at the Beach Club. They came here direct from the new Frontier Hotel in Las Vegas, Nevada, and the Saddle and Sirloin in Hollywood, Calif.

During January, the Second Annual Naples Senior Golf Tournament was held under the direction of Chester Williams, excutive secretary of the Southern Senior Golf Tournaments. Mr. Williams stated that "the Second Annual Naples Senior Golf Tournament was the second largest in the South."

There was a full field of over 150 contestants from 72 cities and 22 states. Many interesting prizes were won by the large field.

J. Travis Davis of Salem, Virginia, was the oldest contestant. The winners of the Senior Golf Tournament were: J. Wolcott Brown, Sea Girt, N. J., with a low gross of 146 for 36 holes. The runner-up was Arnold Minkler, Miami Beach, Florida, with 147. In the best-ball, the winners were W. Bonds (67) of Rockford, Ill., and T. W. Kitchen of Greenville, S. C. The Second Low Gross was won by Geo. H. Dobbins with a score of 68 of Greensboro and Chas. H. Dark with a score of 68 of Silver City, North Carolina.

One of the outstanding events during February was the beautiful Brunch given on the Beach Club lawn by Mr. and Mrs. Fred D. Unkefer where some sixty Neopolitans enjoyed themselves on the spacious lawns fronting the Gulf.

MIAMI'S COMMITTEE OF 100 is stepping out. Two more Ladies Nights have been added to the agenda, making four, and the annual ball, dubbed the Southern Ball was the largest dinner dance the Committee has ever had.

Charles ("Boss") Kettering is president of the Committee and stood at the head of the line with Leonard Roy, executive secretary, and his June, to welcome Committee members and their guests.

Scene was beautiful Indian Creek Country Club, where cocktails were served in the patio which overlooks Miami's skyline across the Bay, and dinner was seated inside the club.

Elsa and Bill Stubblefield were chairmen of the Ball which had lace for its theme. It was due to Mrs. S.'s energies and efforts on behalf of the ball that there were 500 guests this year as against 250 last year.

Co-chairmen were Mary and Ed Christiansen of Coral Gables, and Dr. and Mrs. J. Irving Holcomb of Indianapolis and Miami Beach.

In keeping with the theme of the ball Elsa wore a handsome white lace dress and Mary Christiansen's was black chantilly lace.

Others in the receiving line were Dr. and Mrs. John Oliver La Gorce, recently down from Washington at their Miami Beach Winter home. Dr. La Gorce is immediate past president of the National Geographic.

Another past president of the Geographic, present, was Dr. Gilbert Grosvenor escorting Mrs. Grosvenor in blue satin and bead embroidery. The Stubblefields entertained a large table of guests among them John S. Knight, owner and publisher of the Herald and other Knight papers, and Mrs. Knight; Lee Hills executive editor of the Herald and the Detroit Free Press, and Mrs. Hills.

With Georgette and Tom Joyce were their houseguests, Senator Homer Capehart of Indiana, and Mrs. Capehart. Georgette was wearing her "inaugural" ball gown of silver brocade with emerald taffeta train. The Senator's lady was in black lace.

Giant jeweled butterflies and nymphs cavorted on the walls of the Surf Club for its first gala, the series of Saturday evening dinner dances with a theme that are renowned for their settings.

Something new in the Fountain Room where the roof rolls back to let Miami's famous moon peep in, was a musical fountain. The waters rose and fell in time to the music while colored lights changed them into all the colors of the rainbow.

Lillian (Mrs. Richard) Massey entertained at one of the large parties in a deep violet chiffon that matched her eyes. Among her guests were long time Winter residents in Miami Beach, the Frank Olds (Mr. Oldsmobile), Dr. and Mrs. Edwin Leslie. Dr. Leslie is a founder member of the Surf Club.

Eleanor and Charles Sykes were celebrating their 30th wedding anniversary at Lillian's party. Eleanor was wearing her wedding dress and confided that she prayed it wouldn't fall to pieces!

Handsome Mrs. Robert Butler had a large and beautiful table in honor of her houseguests, Mrs. Shirley Ford of Minneapolis and her son and daughter-in-law, the Robert Butlers Jr.

The senior Mrs. Butler's late husband was our first Ambassador to Australia and also Ambassador to Cuba.

Among the young marrieds from Coral Gables were lovely Elaine Gaither, ditto, Beverly Latimer and Ginny Beckwith, squired by their respective mates, Bill, Carroll and Dr. Jack.

Among the young unmarrieds were pretty Libby Legg, who Winters on Sunset Island, III, with her parents, the Frederick Leggs of Cincinnati. Her date was her best beau, Bud Frischkorn and her houseguest, Eliza Lloyd of Cincinnati was beau-ed by Paul Barns.

Gen. Robert Wood Johnson, head of the well known pharmaceutical firm and his titian haired wife were dining and dancing. With them were beauteous Odette Stewart and Al Parker.

Over at the Bath Club the same evening, Beth and "Sandy" Gramling entertained for cocktails, dinner and dancing for Senator and Mrs. Capehart. In this party were Georgette and Tom Joyce, Ethel and George Kennedy who were just recovering from the inaugural festivities. Others were Lorena Butler, A. J. Henderson, and the Herbert S. Kremmendahls.

They came all agog expecting to see a pink satin tent or something equally spectacular. They were cocktail guests of Marianne Reynolds at the Surf Club whose pink Swan Song party a few years back set Miami Beach on its ear.

Dr. Ralph Sockman of New York, voted one of the six most popular clergymen in the U.S., and Mrs. Sockman at the Surf Club.

Mrs. Edward S. Moore, whose Circle M racers are on the track at Hialeah, Winters in Miami Beach aboard her luxurious houseboat, "Big Pebble," moored in Indian Creek.

THE DIPLOMATIC RECEPTION hosted by the President and First Lady traditionally is the most brilliant event of the White House social season. This year's 1000-guest affair was no exception. Top topic yet on the big international evening is fashions. Not only milady's finery but even more so the gentlemen's fine feathers. Ambassadors in formal diplomatic uniform were resplendent in yards and yards and pounds and pounds of gold braid and embroidery, medallions and ribbons and in courtly wide-brimmed, plumed hats.

Mrs. Nixon chose Elizabeth Arden's creation of rich ivory brocade with bodice-to-hem back panel of matching taffeta.

The tall, handsome Begum Aga Khan wore a shimmering deep green, sequined sheath topped by a filmy green chiffon stole and her fabulous diamonds a necklace and 52 carat ring. French Ambadress Mme. Herve Alphan accentuated her red-gold hair with Dior's magnificent turquoise chiffon gown under an emerald velvet great coat. Britain's Lady Caccia wore rich grey satin with a voluminous stole-train of regal blue velvet designed by her Majesty's dressmaker Norman Hartnell, and exotic Mme. Arias, new ambadress and former First Lady of Panama, was in glamorous mist blue satin printed in huge pink roses.

NEW CHIEF of Protocol and Former U.S. Ambassador to Luxembourg and Mrs. Wiley Buchanan received guests in their handsome Nebraska Avenue residence on the eve of his taking over the strenuous protocol duties for both the State Department and White House.

"Perhaps we'll never have time to entertain our personal friends again," said beautiful, blue-eyed Ruth Buchanan jokingly. If such was the case it was a fitting fling of gaiety and glamor with two of the Capital's most skilled hosts. The Buchanan home was banked in fresh flowers, guests were received in the lush French drawing room, and a choice hot and cold buffet was laid in the east dining room.

Guest came from all segments of Washington society, among them the German Ambassador and Mme. Krekeler, the Spanish Ambassador and the Countess of Motrico; Mme. THE GREENBRIER AND ROBERT E. LEE

A VISITOR at the "Old White" during the summers of the late sixties carried away with him a cherished recollection — the recollection of a man wearing an old grey coat and battered hat, mounted on a beautiful grey horse, every morning setting out alone to ride the wooded trails deep into the heart of the hills. The man was General Robert E. Lee. The horse, the famous Traveller.

This year the nation is celebrating the 150th anniversary of one of its favorite heroes, for General Robert E. Lee was beloved by both Yankee and Rebel once the wrathful struggle between North and South came to an end. It has been said that no one man had greater power in the healing of old wounds, no one man did more to purge both North and South of bitter spirit, no one man did more to weld the two sections of the country than the Leader of the Confederate Army. Much of the storm was abated at the White Sulphur Springs during Lee's visit here the summers of 1867, '68 and '69.

Greenbrier records show that Lee brought his ailing wife to the Old White, believing her health would benefit by the taking of the waters and by the pleasant clime. The family stayed in Baltimore G, a cottage still in use today.

His arrival at the White was heralded by unprecedented attention at the spa which had been frequented by the famous names of society, politics and industry for many years. One writer of the times tells us, "It was not definitely known when he was to arrive and the guests, more than one thousand in number, were on the qui vive to welcome the adored commander of the Southern Army. When the glass doors opening on the long veranda were thrown open and he entered the dining room through the doors directly in the center, every man, woman and child rose at once and at the breathing of his name a silence more eloquent than speech pervaded the enormous apartment. The old, the young, the belle, the beau, the white-haired elder, and the stately matron bowed low before the great general, the spurless knight of a cause, which though lost, was sacred."

That same night General Lee was serenaded at his cottage about 12 o'clock by Professor Rosenberger's famous Baltimore Band.

From that time on, Baltimore G was the focal point of the spa's social activities. Men came to him for advice and the belles came because they loved him and because he, in turn, enjoyed playing cupid by introducing the lovely ladies to the bachelors at the Old White. While playing the role of social leader, he performed the difficult task of bringing the Northerners at the resort together with the Southerners who had long considered the Old White their own particular haven.

A Miss Christiana Bond, a Southern lady visiting at White Sulphur during this period, mentions in her book, Memories of Robert E. Lee, a conversation she had with the statesman concerning his grief at the resentment of bitterness in the young people of the South. She speaks of a burst of feeling in which she asks him whether or not he had ever felt any resentment towards the North, and then gives the following picture of him as he made his reply:

"Standing in the radiance of the myriad lighted crystals, his face took on a far-away, almost inspired look, as his hand almost involuntarily sought his breast. He spoke in low, earnest tones: 'I believe I may say, looking into my own heart, and speaking as if in the presence of God, that I have never known one moment of bitterness and resentment.' After a pause he added, 'When you go home, I want you to take a message to your young friends. Tell them from me that it is unworthy of them as women, and especially as Christian women, to cherish feelings of resentment against the North. Tell them that it grieves me inexpressibly to know that such a state of things exists and that I implore them to do their part to heal our country's wounds.'

"More he said, but memory centers itself upon that supreme moment when the heart of the valiant soldier was revealed, a heart in which love was enshrined with duty, and loyalty to God with charity towards all mankind."

With other Southern leaders at the spa — ex-Confederate officers Pierre G. T. Beauregard of Louisiana, Joseph E. Johnston, Pegram, Hood and ex-president Jefferson Davis, Lee began immediately to discuss the conditions of the South and to attempt to bring back life to the deserted land.

In 1868 the White Sulphur Manifesto was signed. Engineered by General W. S. Rosecrans, Minister to Mexico, and written by A. H. H. Stuart, it was a summation of all General Lee had been pleading with his countrymen to do — to conciliate vengeful elements in the North, accept defeat and appeal for justice. Lee was the first of 31 Southern leaders to sign his name to the Manifesto, which had staggering importance attached to it at the time.

And so General Robert E. Lee left his mark at White Sulphur Springs, a mark which is still noted and pondered by today's Greenbrier guests as they stroll past Baltimore G, the cottage that could tell many an interesting tale if cottages could talk.

Spring is a Special Time of Year in Bermuda

By Barbara Dubivsky

HAMILTON, BERMUDA. SPRING, 1957.

The "togetherness" that has only just recently become such an important factor in American family thinking and planning, has always been a way of life with Bermudians. Perhaps that is why so many family groups return year after year, even unto the time offspring of the original group form families of their own.

Not that Father and Mother necessarily have the same likes and dislikes as their children, but for an island only twenty-four miles long, Bermuda manages to fit in an almost overwhelming abundance of diverse activities for young and old to do together, or separately.

Young families are finding it particularly inviting since they discovered that it is actually less expensive for them to bring the children along than to leave them behind in charge of baby-sitters or Nannies, whose salaries, food costs, etc., would almost exactly cover transportation and expenses for the infants. And, no worrying about how they're getting on while you're away.

Miss Hilda Turner, Director of Public Relations for Seignior Club, Quebec, spent an 11-day vacation at Waterloo House, a guest house in Pembroke, Bermuda.

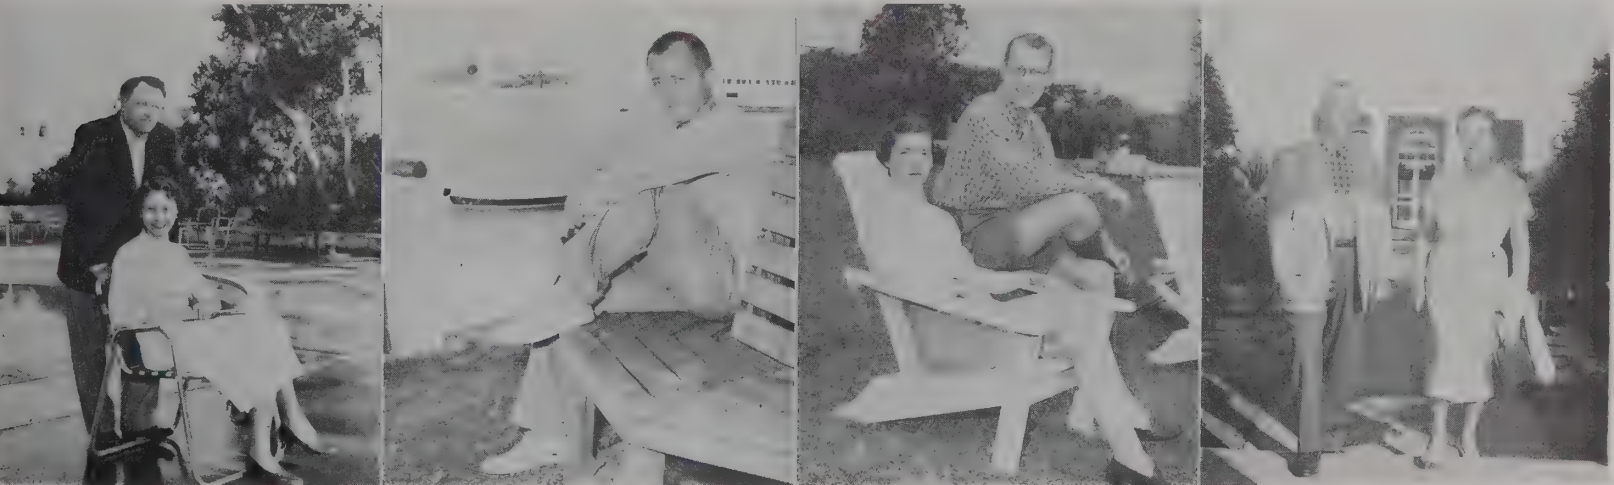

Though Bermuda is a mid-Atlantic island, it is only a matter of a three hour plane ride away from New York. Family breadwinners, prevented by pressure of business from straying too far from home, find this especially convenient since it enables them to skip back and forth as easily as if they were commuting to certain parts of Connecticut.

Spring is a special time of year everywhere, and it is an ideal time to make or renew an acquaintance with these Isles of Rest.

Unwinding from the tensenesses of an increasingly perplexing world, one gives oneself up to dreamy indolence for awhile, before taking up whatever is one's particular holiday joy.

Wherever one chooses to stay, be it luxury hotel, rented cottage, guest house, private club, or cottage colony, the ocean is never more than a mile away, and usually right on your doorstep. Miles and miles of velvety beaches are sprinkled throughout the island, very often lying in coves sheltered by coral rock.

The reefs that lie some eight miles off

Fourth, Mr. and Mrs. A. Vernon Haig of "Greystone," Old Line Road, Roxboro, Philadelphia, Pa., spent a two-week vacation at the Bermudiana Hotel in Pembroke.

Mr. Leslie is associated with the Minnesota & Ontario Paper Company. Second, Mr. and Mrs. George Pearson (right) of Rising Pines, Moor Park, Farnham, Surrey, and Mrs. Herbert Carroll (left) of Delarden House, Farnham, Surrey, vacationed at Scarrington Guest House in Paget. They are pictured here choosing their breakfast grapefruit from the Scarrington citrus trees.

Bermuda form a great barrier to the open sea, and the reefs closer into shore tend to take the ferociousness out of the waves, which roll gently in onto pink beaches, making them a safe playground for youngsters, and a paradise for their elders.

The crystal clear waters of Bermuda open up another world for the growing brotherhood of skin-divers, who discover new wonders of marine life with each dive. Flippers and masks have become part of every family's beach accessories, and it is often the adventurous younger members who first lure their parents into experimenting with the various types of breathing apparatus.

Bermudians themselves are a sports-minded, fun-loving people, but they learned long ago that tearing around, trying to do everything at once only leaves one with an unsatisfied feeling. Far better to slow down and take time to enjoy what you're doing at the time of doing instead of madly dashing off to the next thing with hardly time out to breathe.

Perhaps that is why sightseeing by carriage is so popular with visitors. The soft, clip-clop of horses' hooves is just the right kind of accompaniment for a ride through winding lanes bordered with oleander and hibiscus. Even the tiny fringe-topped taxis proceed at not more than twenty miles an hour.

Dr. and Mrs. K. E. Ferrie of 25 Coulson Avenue, Toronto, Ontario, are spending a vacation in Bermuda at the Ledgelets in Somerset. Mrs. Ferrie is a teacher at the Institute of Child Study, University of Toronto. Her husband is a physician at the Medical Arts Building.

An aura of old world charm pervades in this tiny British colony. The houses have no numbers, but are, instead, designated by names such as, "Paget Hall"; "Tally-Ho";

"Dolphin Green"; "Heron's Nest"; "Bloomfield"; and "Mayflower".

In the Town of St. George, the quaint, narrow streets of the island's oldest settlement are still known by the names the earliest settlers gave them, "Old Maid's Lane", "Silk Alley", and "Printer's Alley". Women, especially, find such streets irresistible and are prone to spend hours wandering around, drinking in the atmosphere of by-gone days that lingers on in spite of the so-called progress of the atom age.

The forts nearby (Fort St. Catherine and Gate's Fort) hold immense interest for young boys, who excitedly examine the shields, lances, cutlasses, flintlocks, ancient rifles, and cannon therein; and, go dashing about over the ramparts, pretending to be supervising the defense of the island from unknown invaders.

Tennis at The Coral Beach & Tennis Club, or on The Princess Hotel's courts, is more apt to intrigue the boys' more socially conscious teenage sisters, who delight in playing an exciting match, but are truly more intrigued by the pleasant get-togethers during the interval for tea.

Father, in the meantime, is probably putting about at The Riddell's Bay Golf and Country Club, or working his way out of the treacherous sand traps of the world-famous Mid-Ocean Club's championship course.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel E. Davis of 8 Plainfield Street, Lexington, Mass., spent a two-week vacation at Pomander Gate, a Guest House in Paget. Second, Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Wiebusch of Mountain View Road, Millington, N. J., are pictured here at the Ledgelets, a cottage colony in Somerset, where they are spending their vacation. Mr. Wiebusch is an engineer with Bell Telephone Labs, Inc., and his wife is a professor of Physics at Douglass College. Third, Dr. and Mrs. Delmo A. Paris of 765 Lakeland, Grosse Pointe, Mich., spent their vacation at Pink Beach, a cottage colony in Somerset. Dr. Paris is a Detroit physician. Fourth, Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Smith of 701 S. Yakima Avenue, Tacoma, Wash., spent a nine-day vacation at Bayswater in Pembroke.

A "FESTIVAL OF SPRING FASHIONS" by leading designers was presented against a coronation background in the annual March of Dimes Fashion Show held at the Waldorf-Astoria.

Combining the talents of America's top coast-to-coast fashion designers with the arts and personalities of Broadway, Hollywood, and television, the gala showing for the benefit of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis gave the audience its anticipated first glimpse of Spring and advance Summer clothes in scenes suggested by current plays.

Backgrounds for the showing were designed by Salvador Dali and Cecil Beaton. Establishing the mood of the showing was a specially painted curtain reproducing the Quaker artist Edward Hicks' painting, "The Peaceable Kingdom," symbolical both as to the realm of fashion and victory over polio.

Script for the showing was written by Dorothy Kilgallen, Anita Loos, Abe Burrows and Michael Martin Brown.

The opening appeal was made by Arlene Francis, and the closing by Edward G. Robinson.

Basil O'Connor, president of the National Foundation, greeted the audience, and George Gobel introduced the 1957 March of Dimes poster girl, four-year-old Marlene Olsen of Boston.

The first scene of the showing, borrowing inspiration from "Around the World in Eighty Days," and sponsored by the Pellon Corporation, presented Easter street clothes in a "Grande Place" setting in an imaginative "peaceable kingdom" of fashion. It opened with the surprise balloon "landing" of Elsa Maxwell. Miss Maxwell wore a "travelling costume" combined of a brown and white tweed suit and blending tweed coat.

Scene II, "Carnival of Flowers," graced by specially-designed flower floats and sponsored by the International Silk Association, U.S.A., featured the coming season's riot of flower-patterned and flower-toned fabrics—a sequence in "lavender blue" being emphasized by singer Bill Hayes' solo of "Jeannine, I Dream of Lilac Time." Also in this scene was a group of fashions called "eccentricities," named for the bold or unique patterning of the fabric, or for unusualness of design. Introducing the flowered scene were Jo Sullivan ("The Most Happy Fella") and a trio of co-actors from the musical.

Mrs. C. V. Whitney modelled Tina Leser's red and pink cosmos-printed cotton at-home pajamas with big Jacobin sleeves and a flying panel sash. Mrs. Alfred Corning Clark wore an Elizabeth Arden gown with the white chiffon skirt flowing from a garnet velvet bodice, and panelled in front with rose-printed white taffeta, designed by Count Sarmi.

Television's Maggi McNellis (Mrs. Clyde Newhouse) wore an ankle-length strapless gown of poppy-printed silk taffeta with a pannier-draped skirt, by Count Sarmi of Elizabeth Arden, and Arlene Francis reappeared in a Nettie Rosenstein evening dress of French lilac chiffon designed with a floating skirt.

Miss Suzanne Ericksen, Alexandre Tarsaidze and R. Thornton Wilson Jr. at the Bal Blanc held in the grand ballroom of the Ambassador Hotel.

The sequence of "eccentricities" was summed up for the audience by comedian Ernie Kovacs and Walter Pidgeon, assisted by Tina Louise, Mrs. Anatole Litvak, wife of the producer, and Diana van der Vlis.

Scene III, "La Plage," opened against a reproduction of a Dali sky-and-sea painting, with a tableau of beach cottons by Galey and Lord, sponsors of the scene. Adding liveliness to the scene were commentators Edith Adams and Peter Palmer, stars of "L'il Abner," and other members of the cast, in adaptations of their stage roles.

Scene IV, "Royal Garden Party," staged against Cecil Beaton's lush green palace courtyard setting, opened with a telephone conversation between Dorothy Kilgallen and Judy Holliday, re-enacting her role as a switchboard operator in "Bells Are Ringing." Playing a natural-for-her hostess, Elsa Maxwell reappeared in this scene in a Martier Raymond dress-and-coat costume of Castilian blue peau de soie and chiffon.

Scene V, "La Bruja," taking its title from the Spanish-for-witch, was scened against a Dali background of a gypsy cave, and divided into three parts making the most of the magical spell of fashion. The curtain rose to reveal Carmen Amaya and her Company, whose performance of the Flamenco gave the clue to the first series of Spanish-inspired clothes.

The sorceress fashions, a tribute to blonde Marina Vlady starring in the French film, "La Sorciere," and recalling today's versions of the 1930's chemise, were introduced by Julie Newmar of "L'il Abner."

Scene VI, "Coronation Ball," the glittering finale presenting formal evening clothes and also sponsored by the International Silk Association, U.S.A., was staged against Cecil Beaton's ballroom setting, complete with a throne for "their royal highnesses," King Fernando Lamas and Queen Arlene Dahl.

The queen's big-skirted ball gown, by Martha, was designed in white organdy with wisteria-and-leaf petalled applique and an off-shoulder neckline draped with a stole of white illusion.

Other guests at the ball were Rita Gam, who appeared in a costume of Chinese yellow silk satin opera coat over a backswept gown of matching chiffon and white satin, the strapless bodice centered with yellow satin roses; and Gena Rowlands of "Middle of the Night," who wore a jewelled mauve-pink peau d'ange gown in bird-of-paradise silhouette, from Hannah Troy.

Dorothy Kilgallen (Mrs. Richard Kollmar) reappeared in a Ceil Chapman gown of white Swiss organdy. Jinx Falkenburg (Mrs. Tex McCrary) appeared in a backswept skirted Nettie Rosenstein dress of watery-printed yellow and white silk satin with a portrait neckline, and Mrs. C. V. Whitney in Charles James' pink peau de soie with deeper pink flounces under a black velvet evening great coat.

Also appearing in the finale were society glamour girls Mrs. William F. Talbert, wearing a light blue slender princess-line dress of chiffon over taffeta, by Oleg Cassini; Mrs. Catherine McManus wearing a Scaasi costume of a floor length white organdy cape-coat over a gown allover embroidered with iridescent silver paillettes and designed with a trained, flowing skirt; Mrs. Bartley Osborne, who wore a pale blue-grey Philip Hulitar costume, the long coat in peau de soie, and the sheath-line lace ruffled dress glitteringly-strapped over the shoulders; Mrs. Morton Downey, who wore a dress by Martha, a bouffant white organdy garlanded with red satin cherries, and Mrs. Orson Munn (Carrie Munn), a white satin ball dress overlaid with gold-embroidered black lace — her own design.

Among those admiring the latest creations in the audience were such notables as Mrs. Frederick B. Adams, Mrs. Basil Goulondris, Mrs. Samuel Peck, H.R.H. The Begum Aga Khan, Mrs. Albert A. Greenspan, Mrs. Clarence Bell Jr., Mrs. J. C. Penney, Mrs. George Greenspan, Mrs. Vincent Astor, Mrs. Raymond Guest, Mrs. Roy F. Atwood, Mrs. Lionel C. Perera Jr., Mrs. Belle Baron, Mrs. Winston F. Camelback Inn

AT PHOENIX, ARIZONA

By Margaret D. Thomas

ALL PHOTOS - BOWERMAN, CAMELBACK INN

THIS IS THE SEASON for March winds which blow as snows begin to lessen over the nation, but in Phoenix, Ariz., those same March winds are like Spring zephyrs on the Arizona desert at Camelback Inn, where vacationers find that "time stands still" in the land of leisurely living.

By midMarch, many of the "regulars" are back at the Inn for another season to compete with each other in annual putting tournaments, to golf on the neighboring fairways of Paradise Valley Country Club, and to relax completely in the bonewarming sun's rays.

At this time of year, the putting greens are never idle. Vacationing groups are busy with friendly competition if it isn't the day for a weekly tourney and March 12, today, the annual Anna Helm Ladies Putting Tourney is due.

The March winds have blown some New Yorkers to the Southwest for sun holidays.

William Patterson of New York City, president of United Airlines, wears the traditional broad-brimmed hat as he begins one of his favorite pastimes, an early morning ride over the desert bridle paths that surround Camelback Inn near Phoenix, Ariz., where he and his wife are midseason vacationers.

Vacationing from their studies between semesters at Bishop's School for Girls in La Jolla, Calif., was this attractive quartet of Camelback Inn mermaids. From the left: Helen Stewart, daughter of the Jack Stewarts of Phoenix, Ariz.; Lindsay Porter, daughter of the William Porters of La Jolla; Eileen Rickie, daughter of the Keith Rickies of Oceanside, Calif., and Tisha Hunt, daughter of Admiral and Mrs. Lewis Hunt, of La Jolla.

Currently vacationing from that area are the William A. Petersons back from Lynnbrook, L. I., musical merchandise manufacturer and his wife; the Harold Nortons of the big city, vacationing again this season from duties as head of Norton Lilly and Co., steamship lines; the George W. Kerns, Union League members who live on Park Avenue; and the Van B. Sims, vacationing Lord and Taylor executive and his wife who are guests in March every season.

The Leonard Dalsemars arrived this week from Manhattan and will be joined shortly by their five children for midterm holidays until early April. The Paul Pennoyers have left their Locust Valley, L. I., home for another desert sojourn and are acquiring becoming suntans.

Here to escape the March winds along the Eastern seaboard, too, are the George Hamids, Jr., back from Atlantic City for a three week holiday.

The W. A. Schusters, woolen manufacturer and his wife from East Douglas, Mass., are back again this season watching the races at nearby Turf Paradise, accompanied this time by a cousin, Mrs. C. W. Carl.

From Cohasset, Mass., is a foursome . . . the Roy MacDonalds and the Harry J. Harringtons . . . here for golf and sunshine. Another foursome on hand currently includes Mr. and Mrs. Eric Rahn and the James Titos, all of New Canaan, Conn.

New Englanders, too, are the Stewart Win-slows of Providence, R. I., acquiring a bronze Frontier pants, Western shirts and hats are colorful and appropriate attire for a ride to Dead Man's Gulch, Buzzard's Roost, two of the frequent destinations of the weekly Camelback Inn pack trips. Wranglers from the Inn stables accompany the horseback riders to scenic spots and prepare meals over open fires for vacationers like the W. A. Simpsons from Encino, Calif., enjoying three weeks of desert living.

The Glead Gaylords, publishers of the Kansas City society magazine, "The Independent," were among the spectators at one of the Winter fashion shows during Camelback Inn's famous noon-day sun buffets. They are among a group of prominent Kansas City residents that vacation annually at the Inn. Here they admire an unusual lounging outfit of printed jersey bound with black.

hue at the colorful poolside decks known as Sunshine Alley.

Back from Bridgeport, Conn., with daughter Olive, are the Oliver T. Osbornes, vacationers at the Inn for many seasons, and from the same city, the Louis W. Raymonds and their family until April.

The midseason Canadian colony is growing, for the desert is a favorite vacation spot with our neighbors on the North. George F.

Trotter of Toronto, Simpson-Sears Ltd. executive, has arrived with Mrs. Trotter to enjoy the Southwest. From Toronto, too, are investment broker Campbell Deeks and Mrs. Deeks, and Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Greey for three weeks of sunland golfing and fun.

Among the top executives visiting Camelback Inn this season were the Hines Bakers, left, of Houston, where he is president of the Humble Oil and Refining Co., who were desert vacationing for the first time, and Mr. and Mrs. Claude Reimenschneider of Western Springs, Ill., who is president of the Chicago Tramrail Corporation. The latter pair are spending their ninth season at the Inn.

Annual vacationers at Camelback are the Albert J. Todds of Kalamazoo, who had a pair of welcome visitors this season who joined them for sunshine and golf on neighboring Paradise Valley Country Club fairways. From the left: Mr. and Mrs. Joel Shepherd, their son-in-law and daughter, who vacationed from the same city.

who annually make a March appearance. Bowman Kreer, Chicago advertising executive, and his wife and son will soon conclude their desert holiday, and the W. K. McMeekins of Oak Park remain until the end of March.

Former guests returning, too, are W. W. Watts, International Harvester attorney from Chicago, with his wife and daughter, joining the Richard Kecks of Kenilworth. The William Foels of packing house note, have arrived for their yearly visit, too.

Wisconsin vacationers enjoying the nearby Scottsdale shops and the colorful art colony in the Western village include Mr. and Mrs. John Stevens, president of Marathon Corp., at Menasha, the Ross Stearns back from Milwaukee, and the Fenton Kelseys with Sharon from Madison.

Arriving from Minnesota and the Mayo Clinic in time for the gala annual St. Patrick's party soon due are the Lec Cases, who annually host a "wake" on the following night. Here in time, too, are the Robert C. Heaneys, Grand Rapids, Mich., attorney and his wife.

Honeymooners at the Inn this month are the Lawayne Heards of Santa Monica, Calif., prominent West Coast amateur golfer.

Bahamas Become Bit of England During Winter!

Sir Alfred Butt, Bt., and his son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Butt, all of London, vacationed at the new Coral Harbour Club about 12 miles out of Nassau on New Providence Isle. Pictured, from the left, in the patio of the club are Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Butt, Sir Alfred and Miss Vilma Wahl.

THE TRADITIONAL PREFERENCE of English residents for island life is reflected in the fact that many noted English families have maintained Winter homes in the Bahamas for years.

Even more English visitors converge on this capital city of the tropical Bahamas Island chain for visits which step up the tempo and provide glitter to the social life inherent with Nassau's "season."

Arthur McGrath have their famed "Unicorn Cay" house, noted for its vast structure and ornate decor in a beautiful tropical setting. Mrs. McGrath is Rosita Forbes, noted lecturer and writer. Recent guests were Gladys, Lady Burney, of London, and Mr. and Mrs. Donald Worth, thoroughbred horse experts Commander and Mrs. Dwight C. Paul of Palm Beach and "La Playa" in Nassau entertained as houseguests Mr. and Mrs. Charles William Fisher of 436 Australian Avenue, Mr. and Mrs. John Balcom Hayward of 400 Cocoanut Row, all of Palm Beach, and Lord Ennisdale of Surrey, England. Pictured on the grounds of the Pauls' waterfront estate in Nassau are, from the left, Lord Ennisdale, Commander Paul, Mr. Hayward and Mr. Fisher.

Relaxing in the tropical sunshine on the terrace of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur S. Vernay's cabana, "Los Cayos," in Nassau are, from the left, George H. Whigham of London, England, Mr. and Mrs. Vernay and Lord Dundonald of Ayrshire, Scotland. A world traveler, Mr. Vernay is president of the Society for the Preservation of Flamingoes in the Bahamas and a proud supporter of Ardastra Gardens in Nassau, where the flamingoes parade and march to oral command.

from Kentucky. Among those expected to visit the McGraths during the season are Mrs. Abel Smith, Hon. Mrs. Grigg and Lady Vera Braughton, all of London.

Another Eleuthera waterfront home is owned by Harold Dickson, Q.C., and his wife, Strolling along a white sandy beach by the sparkling blue waters in Nassau are Mr. and Mrs. Fred Armstrong of "St. Gatien" in Newmarket, England. They were guests of Sir Victor Sassoon in his beach house, "Freedom."

of Edinburgh, Scotland. Nearby neighbors also enjoying the view of the sparkling blue waters from their waterfront house are Lt. Colonel and Mrs. Derrick Bryant, formerly of England. The Bryants expect soon to entertain Mrs. Marianne Davis, John Wright and Miss Tirzah Clifton, all of London.

Lord and Lady Trefgarne of Sussex, England, and Canada have been busy preparing a garden for their modern hilltop Eleuthera house to compete with their show garden in Sussex. Another Eleuthera home owner is A. Jackson Kelly, an American who has spent many years in London as vice president of Pan American Airways. A visitor in Eleuthera during the Christmas holidays, Mr. Kelly is expected again soon to visit his brother, Craig, who recently purchased the romantic beach resort, French Leave.

Among those whose English ancestors settled Eleuthera are George J. Bethel and daughter Enid, of Governor's Harbour. The family, of English origin, came to Eleuthera more than 300 years ago with the early colonists.

English residents on Eleuthera for ten years are Mr. and Mrs. Christopher Pawley, who live in Governor's Harbour. Neighbors there are Mr. and Mrs. K. Helweg-Larsen. Mr. Larsen is co-author of "Caribbean Cocktail" with his wife, whose pen name is Everild Young.

At Rock Sound, Eleuthera, about 45 minutes away by car, live Dr. and Mrs. Norman Kerr, residents there nine years. Formerly of London, Dr. Kerr has a small hospital at Rock Sound. Dr. and Mrs. Kerr are the parents of Lady Peek, wife of Sir Francis Peek, Bt., of London and Nassau.

Double Bay Development, a new waterfront division owned by Hon. Harold Christie of Nassau, has attracted English and American buyers. Lord Iliffe, Hon. Cecile Evans, who is Lady Baillie's half-sister, and Mr. and Colonel and Mrs. E. W. Burdett, M.C., D.S.O., and their daughter, Elizabeth, of Pentreleu House, Monks Risborough, Buckinghamshire, England, enjoy the tropical sunshine by the brilliant blue waters of the Bahamas. They are guests at Weston Surf Club in Nassau for a month. Colonel Burdett spent 30 years in the Indian Army. His daughter farms in England and rides to hounds with the Cottsmor.

Mrs. Jessie Terry of Palm Beach are some of the new property owners.

The plush and modern Rock Sound Club has proven a popular meeting place for English and Americans alike. The club welcomes day attendance as well as house guests. A short distance away, the new Cotton Bay Country Club offers a championship golf course and deluxe modern cottages located on a bluff between the ocean and links.

An Invitation

Each year more and more residents of Palm Beach and vicinity have relied on our Trust Department to provide estate planning assistance and trust services designed to meet the most exacting requirements.

Whether you are a Florida resident of long standing, or a newcomer who has not considered the advantages of becoming a legal resident of this state, you will find our Trust Officers ever ready to discuss all practical phases of investment or estate problems in confidence, and without any obligation whatsoever. Comparisons of taxes in Florida with other states are available upon request.

As one of the pioneer trust institutions of south Florida we act as Executor or Administrator of Estates, Trustee under agreements made during one's lifetime, or under the provisions of wills, Custodian of Securities, Guardian or Curator, under order of the Court, Escrow Agent, and in other recognized trust capacities.

The outstanding structure of the Mayan ruins of Chichen Itza, Yucatan, Mexico, is El Castillo, a tremendous, square pyramid-temple 90 feet high. Down the north stairway of this temple marched the high priests of the Mayas, their aides and their sacrificial victims during ceremonial parades to the Sacred Well half a mile away. The present structure is built on top of an earlier pyramid, which, too, was a temple. The ruins at Chichen Itza are a three hours' drive from Merida, served by Pan American World Airways.

"My Niagara Cyclo-Massage[®] Chair is wonderful . . . relieves tension and fatigue in no time at all"

JOHN S. HEWITT

JOHN S. HEWITT
President
Anahist Co.

"There's nothing quite like a leisurely 'ride' in one of the new Niagara Chairs. In the middle of the day, I like to lean back in mine and let the cyclo-massage motors relax tired muscles and nerves. The Niagara Chair is a wonderful aid to comfort and health . . . and it would, I think, be a delight to any busy executive."

Now you can help increase circulation, ease tension, and improve physical condition—easily, comfortably—while you read or rest.

The Niagara Lounge Chair is a beautiful reclining chair of simple, conservative lines that contains three Niagara Cyclo-Massage motors. Exhaustive research engineering has made possible this amazing equipment, and medical research confirms its remarkable muscle relaxant and sedative effects.

If you want the sensation of a lifetime, just sit in the Niagara chair. Ease back to your most comfortable position, turn on the motors, and . . . aaaahhhh . . . that's it. Cares and wears of mind and body float away. You are but half-conscious of a marvelous action, like thousands of tiny fingers gently stroking, kneading, reaching deep, DEEP down to manipulate and comfort every muscle and joint in your body.

You owe it to yourself to try the Niagara Chair or, at least, to get complete details on it. Send coupon for complete details including beautiful, full-color brochure.

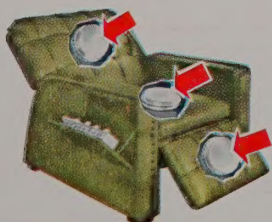

Niagara Massage is available in many models to suit every need and condition, including the comfortable EXECUTIVE CUSHION for use on desk chair, and the THERMO-CYCLOPAD, right, combining heat and massage to help relieve pain of chronic arthritis, bursitis, fibrositis and rheumatism. Send for complete details.

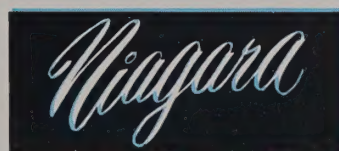

Thermo-Cyclopad

Executive Cushion

Buried in the deep, foam-rubber cushions are three cyclo-massage motors . . . not common vibrators but duplicates of the motors used in Niagara Massage equipment built for hospitals, clinics, and athletic teams.

Presenting the dramatically new
LINCOLN FOR 1957

Dramatic New Styling Everywhere!

—You see it in the unmistakable newness of its Quadra-Lite Grille . . . in the dynamic sweep of its canted rear blades . . . in the crisp, clean flow of long low lines. Inside, rich fabrics . . . incredibly soft leathers . . . thrilling new decorator schemes contribute excitingly to Lincoln newness. Wherever you look, in fact, you will see that nothing has been overlooked to make this new Lincoln, truly, the finest in the fine car field.

Powerfully New Performance!—Out on the road, you'll quickly discover that this most powerful Lincoln of all time is also the most effortless. The new 300-hp Lincoln engine is the strong, "silent" type—and instantly responsive. New, fast-action Turbo-Drive transmission serves up this great new power promptly—and Lincoln's Hydra-Cushion suspension cradles you in gentle comfort. In traffic or on a turnpike, you just don't seem to mind the miles in a Lincoln.

And more . . . for in a Lincoln, everything you touch turns to power! Doors lock electrically. New power window vents open or close as you press a button. New 6-way power seat adjusts to the most comfortable angle at the touch of a finger. Why, you can even lubricate a Lincoln while you're driving—by touching a button. Lincoln's complete array of power luxuries brings a new kind of ease to fine car driving. Come see for yourself.

Unmistakably . . . the finest in the fine car field.
